Boy Found Dead In Lovers' Lane

By TERRY HAMMOND

NANAIMO — Discovery of the body of a 19-year-old practical nurse yesterday afternoon has turned what police first believed was murder and abduction into a double murder.

Found dead of two gunshot wounds in his car along a local lovers' lane shortly before 10 a.m. yesterday was 19-year-old garage mechanic Leslie Dixon of 722 Connaught Avenue.

Discovered seven miles away near an abandoned garbage dump later in the day was the body of his sweetheart, Diane Phipps, 630 Fifth Street, in residential Harewood.

She had scratches and contusions on her face and a bullet wound between the eyes. Dixon's body was discovered by two brothers who went looking for him when he failed to return home after going to meet Diane shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday.

BODY UNDER CAR His girl friend's body was found by a scrap dealer under parts of a junked car about two miles from her home.

The murder victims were last seen alive at about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night in a downtown restaurant. The killings are thought to have taken place about midnight.

Diane Phipps, slim, blonde and attractive, was a graduate of the Nanaimo Vocational School and became a practical nurse at St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver only 12 days ago. She had come to Nanaimo on her day off.

Police, who were mounting a massive search for the missing girl, said it was a "chance in a million" that her body was discovered.

TRACES COVERED

It had apparently been dragged by the murderer from his car to a point about 10 feet off the side of Seventh Street in light underbrush. The killer had covered her with the fenders of a junked automobile.

Police said the passage of a grader along the dirt and gravel road between the time the murderer left and the time the girl's body was discovered obliterated any tell-tale tire tracks that might have been left at the scene.

NO MOTIVE KNOWN

RCMP Staff Sgt. Earl Sarlat, NCO in charge of the Nanaimo detachment, said late last night that investigators so far had not established a motive. He said sums of money found on Dixon's person, in the car, and in the girl's purse indicated robbery was not a factor.

Nor was there any immediate evidence of a sexual attack on the girl, he added.

TWO BULLETS

A post-mortem which was continuing late last night established that Dixon died as a result of two bullet wounds in the head. One entered at the nape of the neck and the other behind the left ear. The bullets were recovered from the victim's skull.

Police said two .22-calibre spent cartridges were found in the rear of Dixon's car.

ISLAND PAIR SLAIN

Death in Family Not New to Her

By Colonist Staff Reporter

NANAIMO — A dry-eyed 63-year-old Nanaimo woman injured to family tragedy told the Colonist last night she had a premonition of her son's death.

Her son, Leslie Dixon, a 19-year-old service station employee, was slain on Nanaimo's "lovers' lane" Tuesday night.

SEVENTH DEATH Mrs. Helen Rosella Dixon said it was the second time in her life that she had such a premonition and that she was right the first time too.

She told newsmen her son's death was the seventh in her family in the past four years. During the four-year period prior to her son's death she had attended the funerals of her husband, three brothers-in-law, a sister-in-law and a cousin.

She said that for several

DUNCAN—Their hands burned so badly they couldn't start their car, a Victoria couple stumbled three miles along logging roads to find help yesterday after fire destroyed a hunting cabin eight miles west of Shawnigan Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Paton, 31 Windaw Motor Court, were discovered struggling painfully down a road into the path of an unidentified Langford hunter's car.

RCMP said the Patons, described as in their early 30s, were burned extensively, especially on the hands, when flames swept the cabin after one tried to light a gas lantern and it exploded.

The Patons were reported in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital here.

Police said the story was incomplete, since it had been passed on from the Patons to the hunter to two Cobble Hill residents.

It appeared the Patons could not start their car after the 6:30 a.m. fire. They started for Shawnigan Lake and were found three miles away two hours later.

THREW ROCKS

The hunter began to take them to Duncan but a truck passing the hunter's car on a logging road threw up rocks which fouled the car's fuel line.

The hunter stopped near the home of Orville Nikirk of Cobble Hill but he reportedly did not have a car.

TO NEIGHBOR

He went to neighbor Ray Douglas, who took the Patons to hospital while the hunter resumed his interrupted journey.

Mr. Paton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paton, 580 Ker. Mrs. Paton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barr, 4088 Lochside.

Sweep Winner Keeping Calm

By TED SHACKLEFORD

So broke Tuesday night that he had to raid a penny bank to buy gasoline, 23-year-old Larry Colwell woke up 12 hours later, yesterday, to find he had won $150,000 in the Irish Sweepstake.

Even after he learned of his first-prize win, Mr. Colwell raided the piggy bank so his sister, Dianne, could take a taxi to get to work on time.

At their home at 440 Montclair yesterday morning, Larry and wife, Teresa, 20, were the calmest people present. But even so, they were fairly excited.

PHONE OFF HOOK

"It was hectic this morning—all our friends phoned and other people. We have had to take the phone off the hook. One real estate man has come here already," Larry said.

"If we are bothered too much we might take off for a while... get a loan from somewhere and go."

"I guess we have about $10 in pennies and nickels in the piggy bank right now."

TAKE PARENTS OUT

Their plans to celebrate the win? "I think we'll take both our parents out to supper. I guess we can go to the A & W drive-in or something."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Colwell took the day off when they heard of their win. Mrs. Colwell is a stenographer at Stewart and Hudson's. Mr. Colwell is a 328-a-month engine-room wiper on the B.C. government ferry, Kahloke.

Minuteman Spatters Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A U.S. minuteman "Instant ICBM" veered wildly off course and was blown up last night, raining heavy wreckage on Cape Canaveral in one of the most awesome rocket failures ever seen here.

Early reports indicated there were no injuries and that the flaming debris—including tons of volatile solid propellant—tumbled into a pre-arranged "safety area," keeping damage to a minimum.

The 54-foot minuteman blasted from the bottom of a concrete-lined launching "silos." But what was planned as a smooth 3,000-mile flight, was turned into one heart-stopping spectacular moment.

Khrushchev 'Unlikely' To Spur Berlin Crisis

AP-Reuters

MOSCOW — Diplomatic sources here indicated Wednesday they see nothing in recent Soviet actions or statements suggesting Premier Khrushchev would precipitate a Berlin crisis immediately after the Nov. 6 congressional elections in the United States.

These reports circulated after a non-committal communique circulated Tuesday about the three-hour conversation between Khrushchev and the new U.S. ambassador, Foy D. Kohler. The communique said the talks were frank and mutually understanding. That phrase began taking on new significance Wednesday as diplomats discussed Tuesday's talks and the talks arranged for today in Washington between President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko.

These two talks, one source said, indicated Khrushchev was still in a talking posture instead of an action posture even though nothing in recent Soviet statements, nor in the communique, indicated he had changed his position on Berlin, Cuba or nuclear testing.

Their Plate Overflowed

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (UPI) — Rev. Lively Brown said last week the community's dry weather might be because church members hadn't been "paying the preacher" and urged them to drop more in the collection plate.

The next Tuesday it rained. It also rained Wednesday and Thursday.

On Friday lightning struck the church steeple.

Masquerade Hid War Crimes

COBLENZ, West Germany (UPI) — A former Nazi secret police officer accused of murdering 3,000 persons told a court yesterday he evaded justice for 14 years by masquerading as his dead brother and became a bigamist with two children living in the United States.

Arthur Wilke, 52, a school teacher in the town of Stedderdorf, was the last of 12 former Gestapo and SS Elite Guard officers to undergo questioning in Germany's biggest post-war crimes trial.

He told the court sobbingly, "I recognize as my guilt that I believed my fatherland would never demand anything criminal of me."

Wilke said he studied philosophy, ancient languages and theology in school but left the church in 1935 and joined the Nazi secret police (SD) in 1938.

Wilke said he tried desperately to get a combat assignment but was refused. In 1942, he was ordered to Minsk in Nazi-occupied Russia.

The charges against Wilke and the others involve the extermination of 70,000 Jews, Gypsies and other enemies of Nazi Germany in the Minsk area.

When Germany collapsed in 1945, Wilke said he identified himself to British troops as his dead brother, Walter, and began a 14-year masquerade.

Test Gap Real

Red Stand 'Sinister'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Britain's Joseph Godber, said Wednesday the gap between East and West on a nuclear test-ban treaty is narrow but real and he added the attitude of the Soviet Union appears "sinister."

The British minister of state for foreign affairs said "the Soviet attitude of sticking rigidly to their present extreme position of no international verification at all cannot possibly be explained as the attitude of a government which wants an agreement."

His hour-long speech to the 109-member political committee of the 17th United Nations General Assembly drew a swift response from Valerian Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, who denied Russia has been "backtracking" and charged that instead the West is blocking a treaty.

Zorin said the U.S. and Britain now agree international verification is unnecessary for nuclear tests conducted in outer space, in the atmosphere or under the sea and thus cannot accuse Russia of changing position "unilaterally." Western insistence regarding on-site verification on underground blasts was holding up agreement.

Godber noted that Zorin claimed Russian scientific ability to detect, pinpoint and identify disturbances underground but he said the West "definitely" has no such ability.

"Why then does he not give us this information?" said Godber.

"The only risk to the Soviet Union in giving such information if they really have it is the risk of being compelled to sign a treaty forthwith to ban all tests."

A Moment's Notice

THE TORONTO GLOBE AND MAIL reports that the federal government will shortly announce its decision to acquire nuclear weapons for its armed forces. In a headline front page story earlier this week, the newspaper said that the date of the announcement depends upon the speed at which the Berlin crisis develops, but "official confirmation of the acquisition probably will come in mid-November."

In commenting on the report, Defence Minister Douglas Harkness chose his words so carefully that they could, by stretch of the imagination, be interpreted as either an affirmative answer or an outright denial.

There was, he said, no impending decision on the Canadian acquisition of nuclear weapons. However, he added, "the situation is the same as outlined by the prime minister and myself in the House of Commons prior to the last election."

The "situation" to which the defence minister refers was described by him in the House of Commons shortly after Canada acquired weapons systems, of a defensive nature, capable of carrying nuclear warheads. Here is what he said:

"The Canadian government is making every possible effort to secure an agreement on disarmament, and our policy on nuclear arms is related directly to this fact. If disarmament efforts are successful, Canada will not need nuclear arms. If they are unsuccessful, the only hope of preventing war will be a Western world at least as powerful as the Communist world."

"The latter is well known to possess nuclear weapons of all types and NATO forces similarly armed are essential to maintain the deterrent to war."

"While disarmament negotiations are going on, prudence and good sense dictate that preparations have to continue to be made in case no agreement is arrived at. This involves training forces for nuclear warfare and securing, or making arrangements to secure, the carriers which could be used to deliver nuclear warheads of a defensive nature."

The government's position, therefore, can be described as unchanged—a position not unlike that which a Liberal administration once assumed on another military subject. Ottawa's present policy could, in fact, be best explained by simply rewording the Liberal slogan of that day to read thus: "Nuclear arms if necessary but not necessarily nuclear arms."

Even though, as Mr. Harkness maintains, the government's policy remains unchanged, it is in itself a changeable policy specifically designed to allow the government to move quickly to acquire and install nuclear weapons should the international situation deteriorate to the extent that it becomes imperative to take such action either as a NATO ally or in the interests of national security.

Both the prime minister and Mr. Harkness have made this clear on numerous occasions, and neither have wavered from their decision to follow this course, the pursuance of which—if it ever came to such an extreme—would in all probability be dictated by international events beyond control of the Canadian or any other allied government.

With tension again mounting in Berlin and discussion and unrest spreading throughout other areas of the world, events could change the present state of affairs in a few short hours at any time. The Canadian government is well aware of this and must conduct itself accordingly in close co-operation with its Western allies.

It is not a case of setting a date a week ahead, a month ahead or even a year ahead. It is a case of acting quickly and decisively in the best interests of the people of Canada at a moment's notice.

So Many Cooks

THERE can be legitimate arguments about amalgamation; there should be none about civil defence. If ever this agency is forced to an active role it will literally be a case of life and death.

It is like a page from Alice in Wonderland therefore to note the balkanization of CD authority in this area, with half-a-dozen separate individuals or municipal groups each proceeding on its own sweet way.

Anything more farcical can scarcely be imagined. Presuming an emergency that invoked CD in reality there would be selfless co-operation; why not such unity of purpose in advance, before it is too late?

The public is often accused of apathy on this subject; it is no wonder as it views so many cooks spoiling the broth.

'No' Was Wrong

SCANT sympathy is likely to be earned by the city's departing smoke inspector, Mr. Thomas Walker, through his complaints that he is losing his job because he does not see eye to eye with the chairman of the smoke advisory committee, Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow.

The alderman, Mr. Walker says, "wants a yes man and he was angry because I didn't back him up on the smoke charges." The inspector further claims that the advisory committee is no place for laymen, councillors or politicians, but should be made up of scientists and engineers able to give advice and assistance to inspectors; that the old bylaw gave him a big stick which he could threaten to use if smoke offenders did not follow the rules, and that the unsuccessful laying of charges under last year's new bylaw—since revised—removed this big stick.

It will be readily granted that Mr. Walker's lot has not been an easy one in his decade of service; to have matched his course to the moods of a vacillating and divided council—including Alderman Edgelow—would have been almost impossible.

But the facts are that the old bylaw and its supposed big stick, never used to deliver a blow, proved far from sufficiently effective to satisfy the people of Victoria, despite numerous improvements. Mr. Walker can claim to his credit; and that the new bylaw and its attempted enforcement were brought about only by mounting public pressure.

The city, in other words, at length got from its council and from the "laymen and politicians" on the committee what it was entitled to receive: submission to its obvious will. Had it not, some of these representatives might have lost their office. Mr. Walker was and is entitled to his own opinions about the best way of bringing about smoke abatement, but as an employee he was hardly on sound ground in thinking that his views should prevail over the wishes of the public as tardily translated by the committee and council.

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and shoes,
and nothing more
By TOM TAYLOR

IF he is to be the husband of a queen a prince, says Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands, must have the hide of an elephant. Even though this statement comes straight from the horse's mouth, as it were, it need not astonish. The layman farthest removed from a throne might have guessed as much for himself.

And, no doubt, a lot will depend on the quality of the queen.

The Dutch prince was not talking domestically, however, but about the outside criticism that inevitably is pointed at the consort of a monarch. He has had his share of it, and it was in the guise of an experienced member of the blood royal that he told Prince Philip, just after the latter had married the then Princess Elizabeth, that "you probably do not realize what you have ahead of you."

This is the sort of titbit, contained in a biography of the prince recently published in The Hague, that is assured of wide reading. Even in the sternest of republics kings and queens have a continuing, sometimes envious, appeal. That is why the gossipers of royal households win easy listeners.

The Bernhard biography is different, though; it is cited as an "authorized" account of the prince's life to date, which gives it the stamp of validity. One could imagine of course that he might talk candidly and intimately to a younger man about to share his status. Like lesser mortals princes are human beings. Thus, his warning to the Duke of Edinburgh to beware and to take note of the barbs directed at him, even if these misjudge him.

"But be not discouraged," he added for goodwill, "all you need is the hide of an elephant."

The Duke was not noticeably discouraged. His aplomb might and probably does stem from his own make-up rather than from the counsel he received, but in any event he has the wit and enterprise to hold his own with his critics, really rather a refreshing quality in a prince.

It is ten years since Prince Bernhard proffered this advice to the Duke of Edinburgh and now he launches a few barbs himself, which seems fair enough. This is a democratic age.

The prince's target is Field Marshal Montgomery, a personage about whose own hide there never has been room for doubt. He acquired his long ago, and perhaps just as well. I had forgotten that Prince Bernhard was a field marshal in the last war, and it is the Battle of Arnhem that raises his ire. Still.

Both he and his chief of staff, he says, "knew more about (geographical) conditions in Holland than he (Montgomery) did"—which is most likely—but Monty paid them no attention. As usual he went his own way.

In his own memoirs Montgomery admitted his errors over Arnhem, but according to Prince Bernhard these could have been avoided. If he had only listened to the prince and taken his advice the failure might have been turned into success.

Maybe so. The last war is full of current hindsight. It is being fought all over again—in print. El Alamein, Dieppe, and now Arnhem. There seems to be the somewhat weird idea that in war no operation should be a defeat, and that victory should be an easy conquest thing.

History doesn't teach this lesson; too often the winning of a war came only with the winning of the last battle. The last war in fact was a pleasant change, after our side really got going.

Apparently Prince Bernhard and Montgomery didn't get on. Time and again the prince would run to Eisenhower "boiling with fury, cursing and screaming about Monty," until he calmed him down.

"It's no good cursing at him," the diplomatic Eisenhower would say, "he is doing his best and you are doing your best."

We have not been made so familiar with Prince Bernhard's wartime exploits, but Monty's are well-known. And for all the critics it must be admitted that his best was a very best indeed.

When the protocol is reversed on the battlefield perhaps generals and the blood royal don't mix too well.

Hazardous Prescriptions

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE stinging nettle that is Cuba, only 90 miles off America's shores, has stirred up in this campaign year an emotional charge greater than any other issue. That Moscow has been able to establish a Communist-style dictatorship, complete with Soviet weapons and military technicians, right on the doorstep of the United States is for most Americans both infuriating and frustrating.

But what to do about it is another matter with the prescriptions running from "let them collapse of their own inefficiency and discord" to naval blockade and armed attack. And with just about every mistake having been made, beginning with long before the Batista dictatorship fell to Fidel Castro and his band of guerrillas, most of the prescriptions seem to compound the mess.

For several reasons the Kennedy administration has thus far said no to the demand for military intervention. One obvious reason is that such action would be sternly rejected in most of Latin America. Any chance that the Alliance for Progress might succeed would almost certainly be foreclosed.

Another reason is the conviction that Premier Khrushchev would use the uproar over a Cuban invasion as a distraction covering a new move on Berlin. This is a conviction widely shared by America's European allies who are fearful of some rash action that could set off a new Suez-Hungary-type crisis.

Still a third reason, which may be compelling, is what military intervention would involve, first, for the United States and second for the Cuban people. No one today harbors any illusions that the job could be done with a division or so of Marines. The White House estimate is that it would take seven divisions at least.

But that would be only the beginning. Whatever the degree of loyalty among the 200,000 Cuban militia and the civilian population—some on-the-spot observers have put it at 25 per cent—continued guerrilla resistance to a regime imposed by American arms would be certain. American forces subject to unrelenting underground resistance would have to occupy the country for several years. Even with a prolonged occupation the odds would be against a stable government with popular acceptance.

It is here, where the future of the long-suffering Cuban people is the primary consideration, that every step taken seems to create new divisions and new torments. Perhaps by the time these words are in print the ransom of the 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners will have been completed.

By GREGORY CLARK

THIS is the time of year when a strange uneasiness enters the mind, bones and tissues of men who live in city and town. They are restless, impatient, with the need to stand and stare into space. They heave heavy sighs. Country men don't suffer from these vapors. The farmers are weary with the long job done. They know the land. It has been a good crop or a bad. It does not matter. They have performed their function. They have provided.

The trouble with city and town men in October is that they are the descendants of countless generations of men before them who, until quite lately, a mere fringe of time compared to the vast expanse of the past, had ingrained into their deepest consciousness the desperate need to provide in autumn. The city man, whose providing is done week by week, all year through, doesn't know what the matter with him when these ancient stirrings start to rankle within him.

That is why hunting affords a mysterious peace of mind to those whose subconscious instincts leads them out into the wilds. For that is where all mankind went, across ten thousand, a hundred thousand years.

Those who didn't, didn't leave any descendants. (Copyright Canada Wide) ment of the Kennedy administration in restoring free government to Cuba. He will certainly claim credit for it. But he is accused by other exile groups of having lost touch with the realities of Castro's Cuba.

Most Americans want to know what this country can do about a Communist dictatorship directed by Russians and Chinese in Cuba. The administration is clamping strict rules on the ships of Western nations to try to stop the flow of goods to Cuba and further reduce the country to hardship and economic chaos. These measures, unpopular with certain of America's allies, are of limited effectiveness.

Recently a high-ranking officer of Castro's militia left the country secretly and came to Washington to ask for weapons and other assistance for a planned uprising within the militia. Through contacts here the request was put up to a high level in the administration. The answer that came back was a firm no.

Does this mean, Cubans are asking, that Washington no longer believes Cubans themselves have any chance of overthrowing their dictator? Or does it mean that certain trigger-happy types in the Pentagon are convinced that direct American intervention is inevitable and therefore they prefer to wait for that moment to come? In any event, the militia officer returned by an underground route bitterly disillusioned.

High officials in this government believe hard-core Communists directing the Cuban regime might like to see an American invasion which would muddy the world situation. They could bring it about by staging an attack on the American base at Guantanamo Bay. That is only part of the peril casting such a lurid light over the Cuba-American relationship. It's Too Risky

No Time To Move

By NER WILLIAM HAYTER

IS the ideological gulf between East and West too wide for voices to be heard across it? Last month, in Munich, faced with someone who asked why the West did not seize the initiative, I replied by asking: What initiative? What exactly ought we to do?

However, after a good deal of thinking since then, I wonder whether I am really right in believing that no constructive initiative in Europe, especially in Germany, is possible. Obviously, one is desirable: nobody likes the position in which all we can do is to wait for Mr. Khrushchev's next move and then protest against it.

A direction in which some kind of initiative is worth examining—though not one likely to commend itself to a German audience—is disengagement. I know all the stock arguments against it, and I am not sure they are quite as strong as they used to be. But there is another objection to it which seems to me fatal.

The stock arguments are mainly strategic. Disengagement would be no use if it was not complete. If it did not end in the withdrawal of the Soviet Army behind the Soviet frontiers. But this could be purchased only at the price of an American (and British) withdrawal from Europe, and this, we are told, would be too high a price because the Russians could return in a matter of days or even hours, while the Americans would have to recross the Atlantic.

This is the argument which I think needs to be re-examined, in the light of recent strategic developments, by persons more expert than myself. Is the presence of American land forces on the Continent now really essential to resist a conventional aggression which would probably not at first involve Soviet forces? Are American bases in Europe now really essential to the effectiveness of American nuclear forces?

I do not know the answer to these questions, but if they should happen to be in the negative, then it would be worth considering the political advantages that would accrue from this double withdrawal. The political (and perhaps even the economic and financial) situation in Western Europe would, from our point of view, not suffer and might even improve if British and American troops went home. But what would happen in Eastern Europe? Perhaps the Communist regimes would be strong enough to survive on their own, without the support of Soviet troops. Hungary in 1956 suggests not, particularly if the withdrawal were accompanied, as it would have to be, by a provision that the troops might not return to any country in Europe even at the invitation of that country's legal government.

Such a provision would give considerable confidence to opposition movements in Eastern Europe. But even if, in spite of this, the Communist regimes did revive they would have to pay considerably more attention than they do now to the wishes of their peoples.

The danger to the Soviet Union of losing control over her satellites might seem to be too great to be acceptable. But in the light of their past pronouncements they would find it difficult to refuse, and the famous diplomatic initiative would have been gained.

However, as I have said, another objection is fatal. It is Berlin. How could we deal with this? How could we prevent Herr Ulbricht from organizing subversion in West Berlin and producing a bogus popular movement there to take it over? We could say, I suppose, that if he moved against West Berlin, West Germany would be free to move against him, and we know who would come best out of that if they were left to themselves. But would they be?

It is all too risky. The advantage of the present situation, timeous and even dangerous as it often is, is that the line is clearly drawn. There is a tacit assumption that we can each of us do what we like on our side of the line, but may not cross it. Once you blur this line, you do not know where you are any more. You may do something you think you can get away with, and find you are wrong, with a catastrophic consequence. Now we both know just what we can and cannot get away with.

It would be exciting to have a more adventurous foreign policy. But the world is not a safe place for adventure. So I come back to where I started; we must sit tight and wait for the weather (in the Soviet Union) to change. It is changing a little already.

Report from Ottawa

One-Sided Source of Help

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

THE Parliament of Canada is a bilingual institution. Not all of its members are. But that's another matter entirely.

Section 133 of the British North America Act provides: "Either the English or the French language may be used by any person in the debates of the Houses of Parliament of Canada... and both those languages shall be used in the respective records and journals of those Houses... The acts of the Parliament of Canada... should be printed and published in both those languages."

Until a few years ago, parliamentary bilingualism was found to have certain practical disadvantages. Members of the House of Commons who spoke English only, had to wait until the next morning to find out from the Hansard translators what had been said during that exciting-sounding speech delivered in French. Other members whose linguistic knowledge was limited to French—and they have never been nearly as numerous—operated under a similar disadvantage.

This problem in communication has since been resolved by the installation of simultaneous translation equipment by which any MP can follow speeches delivered in either official language. There have been occasional complaints that the quality of the rapid, off-the-cuff translations left something to be desired. But otherwise, the system has worked fairly well.

Social Credit bloc has drawn attention to the fact that bilingualism in the Parliament of Canada is not quite complete.

The question arose when Mr. Speaker Marcel Lambert ruled that a question which one Socred had tried to ask during the question period should be placed on the order paper as a written question on the grounds that the necessity of obtaining the information in question was not "immediate and pressing."

This caused Mr. Gilles Grogan (SC-Lapointe) to point to the difficulty of determining whether a question should be asked orally or placed on the order paper. How could one form a proper judgment?

The Speaker outlined the position in a general way. "Once more," he said helpfully, "I would suggest to the honorable member that he read, and perhaps re-read, the commentaries that are to be found in Beauchene's volume on that subject."

But that, said Mr. Grogan, was just the trouble. Beauchene's Parliamentary Rules and Forms was unquestionably a prime authority on procedure. But it was printed only in English. There was no French edition available to Parliamentarians anxious to brush up on the rules and practices of the House. Could it not be translated?

The point was not only clearly, for which the Speaker was prepared. There had never, he said, been a French edition of Beauchene published. He would take the whole matter under consideration and report to the House later.

As far as can be determined, the point has not been raised before. Certainly, it hasn't appeared in recent years.

The rules and standing orders of the House of Commons are published in both languages within the space of a single volume. One of these is issued to every MP. But the standing orders contain but the bare bones of parliamentary practice.

Beauchene is but one of several Canadian and British authorities which a skilled parliamentarian likes to keep on hand to provide ammunition for points of order, often of tactical or even strategic importance, which may reach back through centuries of tradition, custom and decisions.

As the Social Credit rookies from Quebec may have come to realize, the MP armed with the small, compact book of rules is in much the same position as a duck-hunter who goes to the marsh with an air rifle.

Although the late Dr. Arthur Beauchene, a former clerk of the Commons, was of French origin, his authoritative work has never been translated. Neither has the older, but equally authoritative work on the same subject done by Bourinot, another former Commons clerk.

Had either been published by the Queen's Printer at public expense, translation might have been almost automatic. It has been traditional, however, for such works to be printed as a commercial venture, with the copyright held by the author, just as is done in the case of legal texts. Translation, apparently, has not been attractive from a commercial point of view. The sale of the English version, alone, is limited in the extreme.

It is clearly unfair and unreasonable, however, to expect French-speaking MPs to grope for practices and precedents in weighty volumes written in a language with which they are not familiar. Publication of authoritative parliamentary texts may henceforth be assigned to the Queen's Printer as a means of overcoming the difficulty.

Only Kennedy Magic Can Save Democrats

By B. T. RICHARDSON
From Washington

The news coming back to Washington from the political reporters is that the Democrats are in trouble in the forthcoming congressional elections, and only President Kennedy and his magic personality can save them.

That's why the president is barnstorming around the United States every weekend. And the weekends are becoming longer and longer.

Kennedy faces an especially tough situation in New York State where Governor Nelson Rockefeller is already regarded as the man to beat Kennedy in 1964—if anyone can beat him, that is.

pendable father image of American politics.

And when Ike ridicules Kennedy's claim that more Democrats are needed in Congress when they have two-thirds of the members now, he wins strong response.

Eisenhower accuses Kennedy.

The New York Democrats are split up and down.

They picked Robert Morgenthau to run against Rockefeller on the strength of a public opinion poll which showed a Jewish candidate most likely to supplement Kennedy's appeal to the big city Roman Catholic voters.

In Baltimore, President Kennedy was in top form, beating back a strong Republican threat of Governor J. Millard Tawes. The president's motorcade drew the biggest street crowd in Baltimore's history. But another political magician is also at work, Dwight D. Eisenhower comes through the TV strong and clear, the de- of trying for a power grab to make Congress a one-party legislature.

The president is indeed trying a power grab. He needs more followers to get his major "New Frontier" legislation through. His Democrats, especially from the south, have stabbed his program in the back this year.

Kennedy's 1960 promise to get action as a Democratic president from a Democratic Congress is now the big laugh of the 1962 campaign for governors, senators and representatives.

The fact is that Kennedy cannot control the conservative and independent wings of his party.

Space Ships and Black Markets Russia Catching Up, But...

Impressions Summed Up

A series of articles by Peter Dempson describing the Soviet Union as he saw it appeared recently in the Crusader. The following is the essence of a postscript.

By Peter Dempson
From Moscow

What are things really like in the U.S.S.R.?

After a 15-day tour of the Soviet Union, during which I travelled 7,000 miles, visited seven major cities and five of its republics, it's not difficult to reach conclusions and make observations.

Some of them are favourable to the U.S.S.R., many are not.

Here are a few:

The Russian people don't want a world nuclear conflict, but they're convinced the West will have to give ground in the present cold war—not the East. There has been a general "softening up" of Communist policies under Khrushchev, but the maled fist prevails. Marxist and Leninist indoctrination continues without letup.

The Soviet has made great advances in the economic, scientific, education and social fields. But it's still away behind Canada, the U.S. and Britain.

The black market continues to flourish in the shortages of clothing, certain luxury goods and some foods.

Living standards have improved, but they're still below those in most western countries.

The Iron Curtain parts easily by air. I was one of four Canadian newspapermen invited to visit Russia by the Union of U.S.S.R. Journalists. It was no problem getting into the country, moving about, or leaving when we wanted to.

But frustration set in when we asked to see specific things, or to meet certain people.

Nearly always these were out of bounds, the officials were not in the city or were attending a "very busy conference."

On one occasion, when our hosts emphasized for the umpteenth time that if there was any place wanted to go, all we had to do was ask, I quietly suggested a visit to a rocket launching base.

I said, I was anxious to view the Soviet's northern radar warning lines, also.

You're not really serious," one of them said, somewhat agitated, looking at me if I had committed some unpardonable sin.

The Russian people are proud of their accomplishments.

They have reason to be. New plants are going up. New schools are being built. New highways, roads and bridges are under construction.

Whenever we praised them for their progress, but suggested they were still far behind the West, a snap reply would be:

"We would never have accomplished so much in so short a time under the capitalist system."

The Russians aren't a friendly people.

They're dour, sober-faced and remain frightfully suspicious of outsiders.

Generally they seem to be well fed and clothed, especially the children, but they lack the luxuries of life.

Although the Soviet leads the U.S. in some fields of science, having beaten American's initially in the space race, their household economy still lags far behind that of many western nations.

While there is no apparent shortage of basic foods, luxury goods are prohibitive. Dairy products are also costly.

Several of us visited the Moscow Gum Department Store—pronounced "goom"—the biggest in the Soviet, and one of the largest in the world. It was crowded.

Modern cash registers are few, and the Oriental abacus system still prevails.

When small change runs out, it's not unusual for the clerks to issue postage stamps or even matches to make up the difference.

Prices are beyond the reach of most Russian families.

A medium-sized chocolate bar costs 60 cents, a man's felt hat $25, poorly-finished western-type women's shoes, $30.

In this state-controlled economy the Kremlin bosses continually juggle the prices and rates of exchange to keep down the demand for consumer goods.

They know that with the relaxations Khrushchev has already allowed, they won't be able to supply the wants.

That is why black marketing flourishes.

Whilst in Kiev, in the Ukraine, we met several British University students who had been in the Soviet Union for almost six weeks.

They had paid their entire way through black market operations, most of them luxury goods.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

I am pleased to note that in Britain the clumsy and complicated Fahrenheit is to be replaced by the simple and more understandable centigrade.

With the zero mark placed at freezing point it will be much easier to read the degrees of heat or cold indicated. Why zero should ever have been placed at 32 is a mystery to me.

The fact that the centigrade system with its decimal notations is used in practically all scientific laboratories, and even in the weather bureau, is in itself proof of its superiority. Scientists are no fools and their judgment should be honored. If once used in Canada our people would no sooner think of returning to the Fahrenheit than abandoning the decimal system of coinage to go back to sterling.

I would suggest in the meantime that people ask for centigrade thermometers in the stores, then place them up alongside the Fahrenheit and see which they prefer.

JAMES MORTON,
710 Rupert Street.

Report Awaited

The devastating storm which shook the lower mainland and all the southern coastal area last weekend was an initiation no doubt for the vast resources set up by the Civil Defence. Possibly no simulated exercise could conceive to perpetrate more perplexing problems, outside of radiation being included. It would be interesting to all residents of B.C. to have a published report from Civil Defence Headquarters as to with what effect they were able to perform during the mopping up of this most trying situation. I am sure a great many people will be awaiting with impatient interest for this report.

Unsatisfactory Shelter

The other evening I sat with several others in the shelter (so-called) opposite the hospital on Richmond Road; and wished that the designer could have been there also, as an icy wind and rain came driving in. For myself I do not mind, and I only use the shelter once a week, but I think of the noble army of women who go up to the hospital, not just night after night, but year after year, sometimes even twice a day in all weathers. I wonder if something could be done to at least make the shelter rain-proof.

Fisheries, Clubs Oppose Mill Plan

NANAIMO—Objections are being raised to the proposed $40,000,000 expansion of the MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River pulp mill at Harmac—and the federal fisheries department has gone so far as to file an objection to the company's latest application for a water licence.

WATER ENDANGERED

Residents of North Cedar and members of fish and game clubs also are concerned over possible effects of the withdrawal of large additional quantities of water from the Nanaimo River watershed. Discussions have taken place between company and fisheries department officials. The department's Pacific area director, W. R. Hourston, says the company "is anxious to cooperate in finding methods of conserving sufficient water supplies for fisheries requirements," but in the meantime the objection has been filed.

INADEQUATE FLOW

The department considers inadequate the present minimum flow of 36 cubic feet per second, maintained by the manipulation of water release from the reservoir at Fourth Lake, which was built by the company in 1932.

The department feels the capacity of the system, as determined from the available storage in Fourth Lake, has been reached. The North Cedar waterworks draws its supplies from the same source.

No Storm Insurance

$800,000 Loss For B.C. Hydro

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority estimated Wednesday last week-end's Typhoon Frieda did $800,000 worth of damage to Hydro installations, none of it covered by insurance. The authority said a preliminary survey shows 212 of the 330 distribution circuits in a 100-mile area around the city were knocked out by the four-hour storm with winds to 80 miles an hour.

B.C. Telephone Co. said 19,000 phones were put out of service. The company had not yet estimated the storm damage.

Hydro said that within hours after the storm it had 596 repair men out, some of them hired from local contractors. It estimated that 100 miles of power lines would be repaired by today, but Fraser Valley and North Shore areas would not have complete operation until next week.

Civil Defence Chief Denies Liaison Lack

A provincial civil defence official yesterday took issue with members of Victoria-Esquamalt civil defence control board who contended there is a lack of liaison between local CD units.

The co-ordinator for the southern island area, W. W. Mathers, flatly denied a statement by Valentine Godfrey that, under a newly-adopted system, there is a lack of liaison between municipal CD groups in the area.

Mr. Mathers said the new scheme provides a clear plan of action and the machinery and method to co-ordinate procedures for joint action by all municipalities in an emergency. Mr. Godfrey's statement and other criticism about the new plan was made during a meeting of the Victoria-Esquamalt group Tuesday.

Totem Rites Set Today In Mexico

A totem pole carved in Victoria by the late Mungo Martin will be formally presented to Mexico by Canada in Mexico City today.

The famous Kwakwaka'wakw Indian chief died here in August at the age of 81.

The pole was taken to Mexico City in 1960 to mark the country's 150th anniversary of Mexico's independence, but was not erected until recently.

It is 57 feet high and had been placed in Chapultepec Park in the city's downtown area.

Society Granted Subsidy

A subsidy of $4,356 will be paid to the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society of Saanichton, Esquimalt-Saanich MP George Chatterton announced yesterday on behalf of Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton.

The subsidy will be paid under Exhibition Grants Regulations to cover part of the cost of electrical installations in agricultural buildings. Mr. Chatterton said.

The grant does not cover the cost of basement wiring in the new produce building, but this sum, approximately $315, could be claimed in the next fiscal year, as a 50 per cent federal grant towards this cost. The 50 per cent grant of approved costs would then open the way for a 25 per cent grant from the B.C. government, Mr. Chatterton said.

Fair Gave B.C. Record Year

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver and Victoria have just had their best tourist season on record as a result of the Seattle world's fair, Ian Ross, owner of Victoria's Butchart Gardens, said here Wednesday.

Mr. Ross was addressing a dinner meeting of the Greater Vancouver Visitors Bureau.

Cities 'May Rebel' at Taxes

OTTAWA (CP)—A New Democratic Party MP told the Commons Wednesday there will be an "urban revolt" if municipal politics continue to be short-changed on the question of taxation revenues. "They are at the grumbling stage now," said Robert Prittle of Burnaby-Richmond.

He predicted the day is coming when federal elections will be fought on the problems of municipalities and "I don't think there is a party in Canada including my own—that has a good platform on municipal problems."

Mr. Prittle was speaking on a private members' motion calling for a federal-provincial-municipal conference to review the responsibilities of each level of government with a view to sharing taxation on a more equitable basis.

The motion was introduced by David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) who said municipalities now regard assistance from senior government as "too little, too late and too uncertain."

Square Deal Urged For Non-Union Men

Victoria Labor Council last night adopted a resolution calling for "every effort" to give non-union tradesmen employed in government plants "the same conditions and treatment afforded union tradesmen in private industry."

The resolution, presented by Electricians' Union business agent Jack Driscoll, called on the council to request the Canadian Labor Congress and B.C. Federation of Labor to make representation to Ottawa for this purpose.

B.C. labor laws in HMC Dockyard, said Electricians' delegate Fred Bevis, were given a "passing nod" by civil servants in charge of the various departments.

Mr. Driscoll said the recent troubles stirred up at Yarrow's Shipyard, when non-union dockyard electricians were sent out to work on a destroyer escort, were far from resolved.

Mr. Driscoll told the meeting that these disputes could "blow up at other yards in B.C. and across the country and could result in a serious disruption of defence production."

Mr. Bevis termed HMC Dockyard "Canada's 11th province" because of the application of "certain regulations which don't prevail in outside industries." "There are queer practices (in labor relations) in the Dockyard... they stem from regulations set out in Ottawa, where they are not skilled in the operations of a shipyard."

TO HEAR SECT MEMBERS Labor council delegates have been invited to hear Sons of Freedom spokesman Joe Padovinkoff at a meeting in Newstead Hall, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. Chairman of the meeting will be Prof. Anthony Emery.

BATTLE CONTINUES The mail-order battle between MLA J. D. Tidalle and B.C. Federation of Labor secretary E. P. O'Neal touched off another round of chuckles among council delegates last night. The battle started when the council forwarded a resolution to all MLAs calling for revisions of the B.C. Medical Act that would "restore to the legislature" powers "now held by doctors."

Mr. Tidalle inquired by letter if this was not similar to the closed shop enjoyed by many unions.

He received a scorching reply from Mr. O'Neal, which offered B.C.F.L. facilities to the MLA for study of B.C. legislation.

"All I asked was for evidence and reasons for the strong objection in the resolution," said Mr. Tidalle in the letter read to the council last night.

"I don't see why I should be led through a safari through the statutes... to support or condemn a bare resolution..."

Mr. Tidalle said "dozens" of conventions sought his support of resolution, but he had "never had them reproduce a letter... in the press."

Federation secretary replied that all requests for information are considered important by his group, and he had "no intention of leading (Mr. Tidalle) on a safari... but the spectacle of a legislator objecting to studying the legislative statutes is somewhat unusual."

He added there was "little point in exchanging frivolous correspondence" until there was an indication that there would be some "useful discussion."

Falcon Found

Colonist readers helped a city falconer recover a wandering gyrfalcon that strayed away from a hunting expedition Sunday.

Frank Beebe, 680 Goyette, said last night his phone "never stopped ringing" after a Colonist item said the bird had gone astray.

A call from Gary Moss, 3966 Cedar Hill Cross Road, located the bird atop a service station at Brentwood.

Go-for-Broke Boys Winning

PARIS—The other day, a nut I know who drives racing cars for the sheer hell of it, was talking about the change in the nature of racing. "The steady guys always used to win all the races. The guy who hit a steady pace and held it. The wild one would flash out front for a while and then lose. The same applied to golf. The steady players like Byron Nelson and Bobby Jones took all the prizes. The hell-for-leather guys finished out of the money. But now it's the other way around. It's the guys who go for broke all the way who win both the auto races and the golf matches."

Well, it's an interesting theory and I asked Arnold Palmer, who belongs very much to the hell-for-leather, play-every-shot-as-if-it-were-your-last school if it were true. "Well, I guess it is," said Palmer. "One of my best friends is Dow Finsterwald. A really great player, but he doesn't take many chances. And he doesn't win many tournaments, either."

SO MANY PLAYERS

"Of course, you can play very conservative golf and do very well. My partner in my TV series, Gary Player, plays a conservative game and finishes in the money a lot—but he doesn't win many tournaments. The big thing now is that there are so many players. Conservative playing won't win a match. It's the man who's charging, who takes a gamble, who'll win it."

Players like Byron Nelson and Bobby Jones played a dif-

'Those Steady Guys' Something from Past

ferent kind of golf, steadier, and safer. In competitive pro golf, Palmer pointed out, today there will be maybe six go-for-broke players in a tournament and while the steady player might beat five of them, he won't beat all six of them.

ANOTHER GOLFER

Palmer was in England for a week to do a bit in a movie.

Ottawa Riders Lose Defender

OTTAWA (CP)—Defensive end Mel Semenko has a broken ankle and is lost to Ottawa Rough Riders for the rest of the Eastern Football Conference season, the club announced Tuesday. He suffered the break in the game against Saskatchewan Roughriders here Saturday.

"Call Me Bwana," starring Bob Hope, another golfer, and we were motoring through the lovely English countryside to Hope's opulent hideaway near the Rank studios. Over lunch, we discussed show business and golf. The director of Hope's picture, Gordon Douglas, had said that it reminded him of some of the early Laurel and Hardy movies, wildly inventive and full of sight gags. "I don't think anything has changed in movies," said Hope. "I think people just forgot the rules of sight comedy for a while. I've been doing a bit of it all my life. We're doing more sight comedy now because it's universal—you dig it in Arabia as well as New York. Arnold and I do gag shots off the back of elephants—I say: 'The Republicans play those lays all the time'—also gags using giraffes and zebras. It's wild."

I asked Hope when he started to play golf. "I played the first time in 1928 and I got so mad I threw my clubs over the fence. Then in the early '30s I tried again. I was playing the Loew's circuit, and when you're playing Winnipeg, Calgary and Seattle, you got to do something while waiting for the laughs."

Palmer spoke up: "Concentration is just about the whole game. Golf is a great way for Bob to get his mind off show business, because when you're playing golf, you can't think about anything else. My way of getting my mind off business is to go fly a plane. That's my way of forgetting golf."

After lunch, we drove through the fall sunshine, the trees turning yellow and gold, past Windsor Castle to Wentworth, a golf course golfers call the Burma Road. "Because it's all uphill," explained Hope. "You'll see. This is Cardiac Junction. You're all right if you hit the ball straight. But if you land in the rough, it's like getting out of Alcatraz. Golfers land in the rough here and are never heard from again. A year later they find a shoe."

Along with a couple of Hope's writers, named Mort Lachman and John Rapp, they strolled to the first tee. Palmer in a blazing scarlet sweater. "That's an Arnold Palmer sweater," jeered Hope. "This guy sells everything a golfer needs—Arnold Palmer grass, Arnold Palmer air."

WAY OFF
Palmer, the longest hitter the game has even known, hit one a mile. "Way off," he complained. "Way to the right." Somebody apologized for him, though the drive didn't require apology. "He just got off a plane and he's only had two hours sleep," Palmer's approach was 12 feet from the pin and he sank the putt for a birdie four on the 470-yard hole.

Two onlookers tagged along from the first tee. By the seventh hole, there was a gallery of about 40. "Word's got around that Palmer's here," said Hope. I said that his presence didn't exactly help matters. "No, I play here all the time. Nobody pays any attention. Except they hide the children."

He stepped up and rapped in a 35-foot putt, longest one to go in all afternoon, and was rewarded with a round of applause. Hope's putting was excellent and I told him so. "I play better with this guy," he said, pointing to Palmer. "Look at those shoulders! He's built like a lion."

Claremont Wins Again

There was another indication yesterday that the best high school soccer team this season may be at Claremont.

Forced to play an exhibition schedule because they weren't invited into the high school league, Claremont has won twice and drawn once in three starts. Yesterday at Mt. Douglas, Claremont got goals from David Tribe, Dick McNichol and Richard Cane to beat the home side, 3-1. Gordie Strongman scored for the losers.

In previous starts, Claremont drew, 2-2, and blanked, 2-0, Victoria High School.

MCC in Draw With Aussies

KALGOORLIE, Australia (Reuters)—England's touring Marylebone Cricket Club Wednesday drew its opening two-day match against a Western Australian country team, but sparkling batting by the tourists made it anything but dull cricket.

There was no hope of any result other than a draw after the Australians took 320 minutes to make 212 in reply to MCC first innings 247 for four declared.

Bantams Settle Football Throne

Glen Lake Roughriders and Victoria Trojans will settle first place in the bantam football league when they meet Sunday, at 12:15 p.m. at Macdonald Park.

The two clubs are currently tied for the lead and Roughriders hold the psychological edge of a 19-0 win in a previous meeting.

 Next games: Tonight—Toronto at Montreal; Boston at Detroit.

NEW YORK (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks slammed home three goals in the final period Wednesday night to hand New York Rangers a 5-1 thumping in a National Hockey League contest.

The five goals equaled the Black Hawks' output in three previous games this season. Ron Murphy and Eric Nesterenko were the chief tormentors of the disorganized Rangers, each collecting one goal and two assists. Chico Maki, Len Lundie and Pierre Pilote got the other Hawk goals.

Rangers were badly outplayed through most of the last two periods, with only their third line of Jean Ratelle, Dave Balon and Rod Gilbert able to get the puck out of Ranger's ice.

Ratelle opened the scoring with the backhand flip of a rebound at 15:54 of the first period.

Hawks had things almost their own way from then on. Murphy got the equalizer in the last two minutes of the first period and Maki put the Hawks ahead to stay with a rebound in the middle session.

The markers by Lundie, Nesterenko and Pilote—the latter on a power play—made a rout of it in the third period and brought a cascade of boos from the sparse Madison Square Garden crowd of 9,216.

Chicago: Goal—Hall. Defense—Pilon, Vachon, MacNeil, Hillman, Evans. Forwards—Ray, Hall, Balon, Murphy, McDonald, Nesterenko, Maki, Whalen, Turpin, Fleming.

THE PALMER METHOD

"WEIGHT" FOR A GOOD SWING

Here's "weighty" golf advice! Until you finish swinging, don't let weight be concentrated on the outside of either foot. As shown in illustration #1, feel your weight on the insteps of both feet, when taking a stance for a full shot.

As you go into the backswing (see illustration #2) to the top, let about 65 per cent of your weight shift to the instep of the right foot. Still no weight concentrated on the outside, you see.

Swinging back at the ball, let the ball of your right foot feel most of the pressure. At finish, then, nearly all of your weight should be shifted to the outside of your left foot (see illustration #3).

Dr. Gloria visits home in Agili where water buffalo shares human living quarters.

Canada's Doctor Gloria

treats are scurvy, trachoma, tuberculosis, cancer, anemia, typhoid, goitre, arthritis, pneumonia and malaria.

Dr. Gloria says: "There is so much we can't do because we haven't the supplies or equipment."

I accompanied Dr. Gloria on her rounds one day.

A black-robed girl of nine looked wearily at nothing.

"She has either TB or lung complications from measles," said Dr. Gloria.

Treat for Measles

"I've no way of diagnosing TB so I'll treat her for measles. If she doesn't improve, I'll know she has TB."

She gave the girl vitamin pills, sulfa pills and an injection.

Her assistant, a local tribesman named Mashvalee (who interprets Farsi language and dialect), brought in another child.

He had drunk kerosene, inhaled it, and would have died had not Gloria quickly thrust a tube down his throat.

No Diaper Rash

She found he also had pneumonia, an oozing ear infection, malnutrition and trachoma.

"The only thing I never see here is diaper rash—because there are no diapers," she said.

Dr. Gloria's consulting room has mud walls. Her examining table is a board bed covered by a Persian rug.

She gives grateful credit to Drs. J. A. MacFarlane and Ray Farquharson of University of Toronto's medical school for much of her success in treating illness in Iran.

"They emphasized the importance of recognizing diseases by the symptoms of the patient, and disapproved of doctors relying completely on lab reports," said Gloria.

"Without this technique I would be lost because there are no labs here."

Charges 30 Cents

Until her own drugs from America were used up Gloria treated people free of charge.

Now she charges 30 cents per patient.

Gloria's husband, a cousin of ex-Queen Soraya, and himself a prince, pays $150 a month to send patients to hospital in Tehran, to pay Mashvalee and to keep soap and drugs forthcoming.

"If we could get supplies from some relief agency we could do a better job. The people would have a better chance," said Dr. Gloria.

'Tiny Miracles'

So far agencies say her work is outside their mandate, and the Iranian government won't pay.

During the past year, Gloria gave out about 2,000 sulfa pills a month.

She gives 80 penicillin shots a week.

Aspirins run about 2,000 a month and are called "tiny miracles." They are the closest things to anaesthetics available in Agili.

She would like to do many things—but can't because she hasn't the facilities.

'That's Progress!'

Gloria commented: "I agree with the doctor who said if it weren't for the sunshine and yogurt in Iran, no child would survive. Life here is pretty hazardous; yogurt is the best food they have."

Is she making headway? "Sometimes I wonder, but yes... I see progress. Now when I visit villages I see mercurichrome on wounds; I see soap in homes. I see people living who should be dead..."

"For this area, that's progress!"

River Talks Proceed

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter
Columbia River negotiations with the United States have reached the hard bargaining stage but have hit no major obstacles, informed sources said here yesterday.

SOMETHING BASIC
"Negotiations of this sort invariably arrive at a point where something basic, like money, is at stake and where each inch of ground is contested tooth and nail," said an informant.

Club to Hear Brock Chisholm

Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director-general of world health division of the United Nations, will speak at the regular luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club of Victoria in the Empress Hotel today, on the subject "World Health."

British Columbia's negotiators have never expected ready capitulation by the U.S. team on Premier Bennett's demand for five mills per kilowatt—or its equivalent—for B.C.'s 1,400,000 horsepower of downstream benefit energy.

Some observers have seen in Premier Bennett's recent conversational de-emphasis of the Columbia, and his statement to the effect that B.C. will never harness the river for the benefit of the U.S., signs that negotiations were in shoddy waters if not actually on the rocks.

But informed sources say this isn't so.

OVER-OPTIMISM
They attribute any apparent Columbia slowdown to over-optimism in certain quarters that there would be ready acceptance in the U.S. of B.C.'s terms.

But even after the U.S. accepts the terms it must find a way to implement them and to make them look far more palatable to the American power consumer than five mills per kilowatt hour.

Basically they must work out a deal whereby B.C. gets the three treaty dams and Mica Creek generating facilities for nothing.

Traffic Fines

CITY

Anton Dilibrovic, 1419 Haultain, careless driving, $40.
Robert Keith Taylor, HMCS Naden, disobeying restriction on driving licence, $15.
ESQUIMALT
George Bayer, 879 Tillicum, careless driving, $35; no driving licence, $20.

Most observers believe this can best be achieved with some form of a U.S. loan guarantee—which would provide an extremely low interest rate on the $400,000,000 capital cost—plus power price of approximately 2½ mills.

Commons Told:

Nuclear Plan
Isn't Changed

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker said flatly Wednesday that there has been no change in government policy on the acquisition of nuclear weapons for Canada's armed forces.

Instead, he referred the Commons to a February, 1961, statement in which Diefenbaker said the administration opposed any extension in the nuclear club as long as there was hope of progress toward an international disarmament.

NOT PINNED DOWN

Asked by opposition leader Lester B. Pearson whether the government "contemplated" a policy change, the prime minister refused to be pinned down.

"I am not going to contemplate on the future," he said.

REPORT DENIED

The prime minister, in his reply, joined Defence Minister Douglas Harkness and External Affairs Minister Howard Green in denying a Toronto Globe and Mail report that the government had decided to equip the armed forces with nuclear warheads in the light of a probable crisis over Berlin in the near future. The report said the decision in this regard would be announced in the near future.

HARKNESS ATTACKED

Following Diefenbaker's statement, Liberal front-bench Paul Martin suggested the prime minister acquit Harkness with the policy in question. Martin accused the defence minister of "speaking in a vein contrary to the declared policy of the government."

In a related exchange, Harkness said that the Canadian armed forces personnel numbered 128,760 this year versus 119,400 a year ago, while militia strength was up from 45,000 in 1961 to 67,000.

Smoke Inspection

Job Long Draw, Not Puff

The public demands action on the smoke nuisance and a part-time smoke inspector wasn't able to fill the bill, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said yesterday.

Mr. Walker (outgoing part-time smoke inspector Thomas Walker) was able and willing, the alderman said.

giving and therefore city council decided to hire a full-time inspector to do the job.

Ald. Edgewood was commenting on Mr. Walker's statement that he was losing his job because he couldn't get along with the chairman of the city's smoke advisory committee.

Ald. Edgewood added: "Politics are very much a part of this smoke issue. The people have demanded that their elected representatives act now to eliminate the nuisance. All we as aldermen are seeking is a full-time city official to do the job."

The chairman also pointed out that salary for the new smoke inspector was fixed by city council, not by the smoke committee.

Earlier, Mayor R. B. Wilson flatly denied Mr. Walker's contention that he was eased out of his job for not being a "yes-man."

The mayor said: "The committee and council decided full-time, smoke inspector is needed and Mr. Walker is 76 years of age—well over retirement age for civil service—we cannot employ him on a full-time basis."

Mr. Walker made his attack in a speech to the Victoria branch of the Institute of Power Engineers—the men he had to regulate as smoke inspector.

Lions Plan Belt Service

The coffee will be served free to motorists waiting for installation of their seat belts. Proceeds will go to Lions Club charities.

Three Days Weeklies Start Convention

The three-day convention of the B.C. Weekly Newspapers Association opens this morning at the Empress Hotel, with president Clive Stangor of Williams Lake presiding at the first business meeting.

Hosts at a luncheon in the Duke of Kent room today will be B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, Vancouver Island regional manager, L. E. Wright, will be speaker at the luncheon.

Dinghy Stolen

Theft of a small dinghy from wharf at Johnson Street bridge was reported to police at 5 p.m. yesterday. The $75 boat, owned by G. Moorhouse, 43 South Turner, was painted grey and had the name "Sea Wolf" painted on its bow.

A is for Amenity to all share together.

SMOKE SCREEN?: The word we hear is that city smoke inspector Tom Walker is NOT being pushed out because Ald. Geoff Edgewood wants a "yes" man in the job.

But some city aldermen in the past few months have been asking each other in surprised tones just whose side Mr.

Walker has been on over the smoke issue. Seems they feel he has been too easy on smoke-producing industries and has publicly supported operators.

And as Tom is beyond retiring age he can't apply for the full-time job of smoke inspector.

POETIC LICENCE: Former Saanich councillor Bill Kennedy sat down the other day to ponder the amalgamation problem and came up with the following:

A is for Amalgamation which is bound to take place.

M is for Merger in this inevitable embrace.

A is for Amenity to all share together.

Islanders May Create Two Publicity Bureaus

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

NANAIMO—Proposals which would split the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau into two separate bodies were unveiled and given a tentative go-ahead yesterday.

Bureau directors authorized the setting up of a committee of directors from Victoria to draw up a constitution and bylaws for a group to take over the job of promoting tourism in Victoria, probably under some such name as the Victoria Visitors Bureau.

They also approved a draft constitution and bylaws for a Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau and instructed the committee which drew them up to get to work selling the proposal to Island municipal governments and chambers of commerce.

P. B. Scurrell of Victoria, head of the committee which drew up proposals for the Vancouver Island bureau, said it is intended to be solely an agency to publicize the Island elsewhere, under the B.C. government matching grants scheme.

He originally suggested that the Victoria bureau should act as liaison between the Island bureau and the B.C. government for matching grants purposes.

May Not Qualify

But later in the meeting it was indicated the Victoria bureau will cease to qualify under the B.C. matching grants program and the Island bureau will deal directly with the government. Under the matching grants program, the government asks a dollar to every dollar the authorized agency spends to publicize the region elsewhere.

William Hawkins, commissioner of the existing publicity bureau, said the Victoria bureau "will continue to function and answer inquiries as it has since 1923."

Purpose of Move

These members will elect a 12-man board of directors. There are 29 directors on the present board of the publicity bureau.

Don Cunliffe, Nanaimo lawyer who drafted the constitution and bylaws of the proposed Vancouver Island bureau, said the purpose of the move is "to create a dichotomy between the two functions of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau."

These, he said, are, first, the advertising of Vancouver

Police Plan Moves Ahead

After a meeting with police union representatives Mayor R. B. Wilson reported progress toward establishment of a new promotions system for members of the police department. The new system, patterned on Vancouver's, should be in operation by the end of the year.

Members of the committee are Mr. Scurrell, Mr. Cunliffe, Coun. F. W. Hawes of Oak Bay, a member of the committee which drew up plans for the Vancouver Island bureau, said "this thing will have to be sold" to municipal councils and chambers of commerce.

The committee was authorized to "disseminate information" to the appropriate bodies and to arrange for a general meeting to deal with the founding of the organization.

Members of the committee are Mr. Scurrell, Mr. Cunliffe, Coun. F. W. Hawes, Ald. Arthur Dowell of Victoria and Duncan Mayor Jack Dobson.

Taxpayers Hit?

Victoria Holds Key To Publicity Costs

NANAIMO—Will Victoria's taxpayers contribute substantially more under a proposed scheme to make two bodies out of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau?

That Victoria alderman and bureau president Austin Curtis said yesterday, is up to Victoria.

At a meeting of bureau directors Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoria asked whether a $1,500 Victoria city grant to the proposed Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau would be in addition to or deducted from the city's present annual $30,000 grant to the Victoria and Island bureau.

City council will have to decide that, said Ald. Curtis.

A proposed budget for the Vancouver Island bureau for 1963 was tentatively approved by the directors yesterday with about $82,000 expenditures exceeding receipts by about $5,000.

The budget allowed for expenditures of $49,000 for advertising, $23,500 for pamphlets and other literature and $9,500 for administrative costs.

Receipts would include $31,500 from the B.C. government under the matching grants program, $36,500 from local governments and business organizations throughout Vancouver Island and $9,000 estimated surplus from the 1962 budget of the present bureau.

Policy for Varsity: High Standards Outweigh Degrees

By IAN STREET

Victoria University will not award its own degrees until it can do so without risk of lowering its present high academic standards.

Prof. Hugh Farquhar, executive assistant to the principal, stressed, however, it does want the right "to give our own degree when we are ready."

He told parents of Oak Bay High School students this week: "We have a very genuine desire to create a university that will be known for its high academic standards."

Other likely fields for expansion in near future are B.C. and west coast history, marine biology and possibly oceanography. A faculty committee is studying possibility of a child study centre.

It is only a matter of time before post-graduate studies are instituted to attract more high-calibre instructors and students.

Every effort is being made to add to the fine reputation won by Victoria University students during the first two years of its degree program. They won, among others, Rhodes scholarships and Governor-General's awards.

"We are in no hurry to award our own degree," said Prof. Farquhar, "because we want it to be recognized for its worth when we do."

OUTRIGHT GRANT

Prof. Farquhar repeated his claim that a new university cannot be built here on the basis of matching grants alone. He added: "I believe that in addition we must have an outright capital grant."

He said he would like to present "the other side of the coin" and describe the uses for the money sought by the university.

"The only reason we ask for more financial aid," the speaker said, "is so we can construct buildings, buy equipment and books, and hire faculty in order to provide the kind of education the people of this province should have."

Prof. Farquhar added: "I believe we have already established a very strong base upon which to build a university."

NO STAMPEDE

"We must now consolidate our program and we must not be stampeded into too rapid growth at the expense of academic standards."

"I believe we should provide leadership in the fine arts in this community," he said.

The first fine arts course this year drew 70 students, and there are plans for a course in FINE FIT: Helping organize The Golden Mountain Fantasy, the Chinese centennial pageant to be featured at the annual Lantern Festival which will be held in the Shucui Oct. 21, Beside Tang has been collecting Chinese clothes and articles used in Victoria over the past 100 years. She donated the use of a richly simple gown worn by her mother, formerly a Miss Wong, some 70 years ago. Among the girls who will act in the pageant is May Wong—no relation—who will wear the gown and a pair of matching slippers.

CLEAN SWEEP: Yesterday's big winners in the Irish Sweepstakes — Larry and Teresa Colwell, 440 Montclair — have joined a select group of Greater Victoria residents who have won some $615,000 from the Irish over the past 10 years. Other winners included Wah Quan in 1953.

$137,000; Horace Whitlock, 1956, $56,000; Wilf Paulin, Wilf Jones, Emil Reid and Dave Kenney, 1958, $135,000; James Cambrey, 1960, $137,000. Must at least prove there are a lot of genuine tickets sold in Victoria, though we hear a rumor the RCMP gambling squad in Vancouver is being asked to investigate certain ticket sellers here for fraud.

SMOKE SCREEN?: The word we hear is that city smoke inspector Tom Walker is NOT being pushed out because Ald. Geoff Edgewood wants a "yes" man in the job.

But some city aldermen in the past few months have been asking each other in surprised tones just whose side Mr.

Baby's Condition Satisfactory In City Hospital

A new-born baby was in satisfactory condition after a blood transfusion replacement in St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

"Baby" Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Orr of Port Alberni was rushed to hospital from Port Alberni and given a police escort through the city yesterday morning.

Rh FACTOR

The infant was born with an Rh blood factor which made an immediate blood transfusion transfer necessary.

Supplies of blood were not available at St. Joseph's Hospital so a supply was sent from Vancouver but had to be shipped by B.C. government ferry as the mainland airport was fogged in.

CALL QUICKER

A hospital official said last night it was often quicker to ask Vancouver for blood when a supply was not readily available in Victoria than calling in a donor, and the exchange operation took "almost as much time."

Hospital officials last night were dismayed at the amount of publicity given the infant's trip from Port Alberni.

"There is absolutely nothing unusual about a blood transfusion replacement," an official said, "we do them all the time. I don't understand what all the fuss is about."

The transfer is necessary when the child's blood disagrees with that of the mother and the mother builds up antibodies which in turn enter the infant's blood stream before birth.

BACK TO NORMAL

The antibodies cause the infant's red cells to break down and result in anemia. New blood transfused into the child's system is free of this condition and restores the child to normal.

A hospital official said last night a single bottle of Rh-negative blood was used in the transfer.

Stall in Need Of Vegetables

Root vegetables are urgently needed for Saturday's free food stall.

Mrs. E. E. Harper, stall convenor, said last night the anticipated surplus from Greater Victoria gardens had so far failed to materialize.

"Donations of vegetables will be greatly appreciated," she said.

Other donations to the stall have been coming in on schedule.

Needy families attending the stall Saturday will find several apples in their food parcels. Mrs. Harper said a large quantity of apples had been donated to the stall.

A pickup service is available to donors if they phone Mrs. Harper at GR 4-1750.

VMD Again Launches Colonist's 500 Fund

With plans still being completed for The Daily Colonist 500 Fund for this year, Victoria Machinery Depot employees, for the second year in a row, are first on the donation list.

VMD Employees' Benefit Fund Committee has unanimously approved a gift of $200 for the fund, launched by the Colonist each year for the 500 most needy families in the Greater Victoria area.

In a letter to Colonist editor-in-chief Richard Bower, VMD comptroller Drummond Taylor said employees wanted to be sure they were the first to contribute again this year.

Last year generous donors pushed the fund to an all-time record high of $13,529.22.

Hundreds of letters of thanks from 500 Fund cheque recipients flooded the Colonist office after Christmas to praise the generosity of Greater Victorians who donated to the fund.

Basil FitzGibbon

Gourmet Dinner

Men in the Kitchen

By DOROTHY WHOTNOWSKI
A privileged few, eight persons to be exact, had dinner at the Empress Hotel the other night, when Basil FitzGibbon was the genial host.

Basil FitzGibbon, a bachelor actor, say fortyish, with an obvious enjoyment in good living, is one of Canada's newest authorities on food.

And, whether you are interested in cooking or not, we'll wager that you will read his column which will start in The Daily Colonist on Thursday, Oct. 25 and will appear regularly once a week.

WIDE VARIETY

The column entitled "That Man in the Kitchen" will include a wide variety of recipes—some that will be expensive to make and others inexpensive. All will have the same ingredient—that of introducing interesting flavor combinations.

Although he has always been interested in food and in cooking, it was only a year ago that he suggested to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in Montreal that he felt a series on meats would be helpful to puzzled housewives. He did the series. It was an immediate hit and he has gone on presenting his ideas about food in general.

FROM ENGLAND

Basil FitzGibbon first saw Canada during the war when he came from England as a wing commander in the RAF and subsequently became flying chief instructor of the North Atlantic Ferry Command at Dorval, Que.

After the war he decided he wanted to live in Canada and has worked as a radio announcer and actor in Toronto, London, Ottawa, New York before settling in Montreal.

Canada may be Basil's home but when you meet him you immediately place him as British, both by his accent and looks. He is a jovial man and takes joy in creating new dishes. Imagination is a must in daily preparation of food, according to this expert.

Imagination he has you'll agree when you hear what he had ordered for dinner in Victoria. There were five courses during the two hour, conversation packed, sitting.

First, smoked salmon sprinkled with capers and surrounded by small mounds of minced onion, grated egg yolk and an artichoke heart, criss crossed with red pepper.

WORK AND TIME

Then came Island fresh field tomato tea with Amontillado followed by filet of Juan de Fuca sole, Pacifica. And that Pacifica, I learned from Clarence E. Butler, head chef at the Empress, means a little work and time.

In a flat, buttered dish cover bottom lightly with finely minced onion. Place either rolled or flat sole fillets on onion, pour on a cup of dry white wine, cover with buttered paper and bake in a 350 degree oven for 10 minutes.

Remove to another dish and top sole with a crab leg, two small shrimp and two avocado slices, previously warmed in butter.

Make sauce by adding flour and butter to wine, thicken, then add egg yolks, salt, Accent, squeeze of lemon. Pour over fillets, sprinkle with cheese, and pop in oven for a few minutes.

STILL TO COME

That was the entree, mind you, the main course is still to come. Supreme Sidney Farm Duckling breasts, wild rice a la Butler (Mr. Butler and Mr. Joseph Zanichelli, maitre d' created this dish when they worked together in Regina years ago), glazed celery heart, and taste treating, spiced kumquats called for gourmet palates.

The sauce for the duckling was made by combining a thin, strong duck gravy with dry, red wine, a puree from the pulp and peel of two fresh peaches and Cointreau. Approved for a very special occasion.

Wild Rice Dish. To a pound of cooked wild rice add this mixture. Saute three slices of finely chopped bacon in skillet, add about eight sliced mushrooms, chopped chives, a touch of garlic, pulp from one large or two small, peeled and seeded tomatoes, salt and pepper. Butter a casserole, add rice and mixture, top with butter, and cook in oven.

STILL WITH ME?

If you are still with me—the dessert was crepes and Okanagan Bing cherries. Stone one tin of cherries, cover with dry, red wine, one tablespoon brown sugar, finely chopped lemon rind and two whole cloves. Cook until reduced then put through sieve and cook again until the consistency of jam. Add ½ ounce of Cointreau. Spread the crepes with this sauce, fold into four, dot with butter and sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. Before you run them under the salamander, pour on Kirsch if you can get it and pay the price.

Coffee, liqueurs and Typhoon Frieda finished THAT evening.

IODE Golf Club Dance

At the Royal Bride Chapter, IODE meeting, Mrs. P. J. Sands was welcomed back and Mrs. Arne Bo was welcomed as guest. Anniversary scholarship of $150 was received by Miss Shiela Margaret McEwan of Victoria University. Plans were made to hold a dance at the Colwood Golf Club on Nov. 23. Mrs. J. A. Paton was made convener of the old curiosity shop, a feature of next year's IODE Festival.

Slides were shown of the Seattle World's Fair by Mrs. H. R. Parrot. Next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. S. Bentley, 2726 Prior Street, on Thursday, Oct. 18 at 8 p.m.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our 16-year-old daughter is very mature for her age both physically and mentally. We are having a little disagreement about her fall wardrobe.

She has gone in rather heavily for knitted outfits. Generally her taste is excellent but some of the garments she brought home yesterday appear to be much too tight on her.

Can you give me an idea of how tight a 16-year-old's dresses ought to be? Thank you.—SQUARE MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Tight enough so that she looks like a girl—but loose enough so that she looks like a lady.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday when I went out to the garage to check the garden tools before putting them away for the winter, I noticed something in the back seat of the car. It turned out to be a woman's cashmere sweater and a pair of high-heeled slippers. They did not belong to me. In fact I had never seen them before.

My husband has never given me any reason to suspect that he may be slipping around behind my back. I would have bet my life he was 100% faithful. Finding those things in the car has upset me terribly.

I confided in my closest friend who knows a lot about men. She has had three divorces.

She says ALL husbands are 100% faithful—until they get caught. She advised me to keep my mouth shut and forget I ever saw anything. Do you agree that this is the smart move?—BONNIE.

Dear Bonnie: When you want advice go to a winner—not a loser. I think your girl friend gave you a bum steer.

By remaining silent you assume the worst and deny your husband an opportunity to explain. This is unfair. It may be that there is no hanky-panky whatever but you'll never believe it until you clear the air.

Dear Ann: Several weeks ago my husband's sister invited us to a dinner party in her home.

The dinner was scheduled for 7:00 p.m. on Saturday. At noon on Saturday a car pulled up with surprise visitors. It was my sister and her husband, his brother and wife and mother-in-law. Since they had driven 130 miles to see us I had no choice but to be hospitable. We have plenty of extra beds, and food in the freezer, so that is never a problem.

I phoned my husband's sister and asked her if I could bring our guests to her dinner party. She was most ungracious and

Turned Up Toes

CHICAGO (UPI)—If American women are looking for support they won't get it from the shoemakers. Spike heels are here to stay.

That was the word today out of the national shoe fair. Thelma Hennessey, fashion director of the National Shoe retailers Association, said heels won't get any thinner because they're as thin now as the laws of physics allow.

The flared heel which widens gently at the base continues in style while the medium heel remains the most popular, according to Mrs. Hennessey.

She noted, however, a trend toward lower heels. When it comes to toes, latest step is the turned-up toe, patterned after far-eastern styles. The footwear exhibits also show the trend toward the pointed toe remaining basically the same, although not as elongated.

Apathy Brings Group Action

"Deep concern over apathy of voters in general and women in particular," resulted in the formation of the Association of Women Electors of Greater Victoria, Tuesday night, in the War Amps Hall, Oak Bay Avenue.

The purpose of the club is "to create an interested and informed women electorate." It is composed of members of various women's clubs who feel there is a need for greater interest in civic and municipal affairs.

The group describes itself as non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-profit.

Chairman of the initial meeting was Mrs. Charles Smith, past president of the Victoria

Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. A. H. Gunning, president of the University Women's Club, outlined the constitution, which is based on that of the Association of Toronto Women Electors.

The course of action consists of study, taking a stand and sticking with it. It was stressed this is "not a female army," but "an organization of intelligent citizens interested in the municipality as a whole."

Mrs. H. L. McKenzie, president of the Greater Victoria Local Council of Women, is chairman of the nominations committee which will recommend an executive at the next meeting, Oct. 30 in the War Amps Hall.

Polish King's Favorite Sweet Named After Hero, Ali Baba

Once upon a time, there lived a king named Stanislas who read and dreamed of the tales of the "Thousand and One Nights." It was no surprise to his court when he named his favorite sweet "Baba" after the hero of the story, Ali Baba. News of the delicious dessert, a yeast-leavened cake sprinkled with rum, traveled quickly from the palace in Poland to the royal French kitchens where the recipe became Baba au Rhum and acquired instant fame.

Although almost 250 years have passed since its invention, Baba au Rhum is still considered one of the most delicious desserts in the kitchens of the world. Now here, at last, is a truly American version that combines ease of preparation and the use of familiar ingredients, yet retains all the exquisite deliciousness of the King's original favorite.

Making this new Baba is easier than preparing a pie and just slightly more time-consuming than a cake mix. The recipe starts with a cake leavened with yeast, yet needs to be set aside for only 45 minutes to rise. The flavor secret of delicious Baba is the sauce. It is simmered and poured over the Baba as soon as it comes from the oven. This one—a distinctive U.S. version—is made with a caramelized beverage. The delicate, refined citrus essence of lemon-lime carbonated beverage is combined with sugar and rum-flavoring to make an outstanding sauce for the Baba.

Baba au Rhum Glace... a traditional yeast-leavened cake, baked in a ring mold, then soaked in a syrupy, rum-flavored sauce. A modern touch is the lemon-lime carbonated beverage used in the sauce.

After the Baba is well soaked in the sauce, invert it on a pretty dessert plate. Fill the centre with petite scoopsful of ice cream for Baba Glace.

BABA AU RHUM GLACE

Half cup warm water (105-115 degrees), 1 pkg. or cake active dry or compressed yeast, 1/2 cup sifted flour, 4 eggs, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 cup soft butter (1 stick), 1 cup sugar, 2 (7-ounce) bottles lemon-lime carbonated beverage, 23 tablespoons rum flavoring, 2 pints vanilla ice cream, 1/2 cup chopped pecans.

Place warm water in a mixing bowl; sprinkle yeast over it. Stir until yeast is dissolved. Beat in 1/2 cup flour. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition. Add 1/2 cup sugar, salt and remaining 1 1/2 cups flour; mix thoroughly. Cover bowl and allow batter to rise in a warm place (85 degrees) until light and almost double in bulk (about 45 minutes). Beat in soft butter (not melted) a little at a time. Pour mixture into greased 1 1/2-quart ring mold. Bake in 375-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes. While Baba is baking, prepare sauce: Combine 1 cup sugar and lemon-lime carbonated beverage in a saucepan. Boil gently for 10 minutes. Add rum flavoring. When Baba is done remove from oven and pour about two-thirds warm sauce evenly over it in pan. Cool. At serving time, invert Baba on serving plate. Fill centre with scoopsful of ice cream and top with pecans. Serve with remaining sauce. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

At the Awards Day Tea held by the Saanich 4H Home Arts Club on Sunday at the Government Experimental Farm, Miss Mary Lord of Sidney was presented the highest proficiency award. Mr. G. Landon, Department of Agriculture, Extension Division, presented the award to Miss Lord.—(Dorothy Kennedy)

Apple Pie Bakeoff Winner

NEW YORK (UPI) — This recipe for apple pie won $25,000 for Mrs. Erwin Smogor of South Bend, Ind., in the 14th grand national bakeoff.

Bake at 375 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes. (Serves 12 to 15.) 1/2 pound (about 28) light colored candy caramels; 1/2 cup evaporated milk or light cream; 3 cups of sifted flour; 1/2 cup sugar; 1 1/2 teaspoons salt; 6 tablespoons butter; 1/2 cup cooking oil; 1 unbleached egg; 1/2 cup cold water; 1/2 cup walnuts, chopped.

Melt caramels with evaporated milk over boiling water, stirring occasionally. Keep over hot water. Sift flour with sugar and salt into mixing bowl. Cut in butter until particles are fine.

Blend oil with egg and water until slightly thickened. Add to dry ingredients; stir until mixture holds together. Form into a square.

Roll out on ungreased 17x13-inch sheet of heavy duty aluminum foil to within one inch of edges. Smooth edges; flut. Fold foil up around pastry to 15x10-inch rectangle. Place on ungreased cookie sheet.

Place filling on pastry. Drizzle caramel sauce, thinning with few drops of milk, if necessary, in wide strips over apples. Spread topping between caramel sauce. Sprinkle with walnuts. Bake at 375 degrees for 30-35 minutes and serve hot or cold.

Apple filling: Combine one cup sugar, 1/2 cup flour and 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind in saucepan. Stir in 6 cups pared, sliced apples and 1/2 cup lemon juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until thickened.

'Latch Key' Children

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Sigrid Day, Montreal social worker, is executive director of the St. Andrew's Youth Centre which takes care of what she calls "latch key" children—those who return home from school to find empty houses because of two working parents. She said in Iron Curtain countries and in Israel these services are provided by the state.

Exercise By Sitting

Do secret exercises — while you walk downstairs, talk on the telephone or sit in class. You can take an inch off your rear in a month (just sitting) like this: tighten seat muscles, then tummy muscles — don't hunch shoulders — and count to ten; relax. Do three or four times daily. Here's a way to trim and tone upper arms: devised by Bonnie Prudden: Hold a book out sideways at arm's length and twist your arm under as far as you can. You should feel pull in back of arm and shoulder. Twist ten times, then switch book to other arm. To firm thighs, sit on chair and swing legs straight out in front of you; hold for one minute.

Lokken reminded members of the meeting to be held at the home of sentinel E. Verriere, 3244 Millgrove Road on Thursday evening, Oct. 18. A helpful friend sends us these preserving tips to share with you. When making jam, rub a little butter all round the pan before putting in the fruit and sugar. You'll find the jam never burns or sticks to the bottom of the pan. A teaspoon of butter added when the jam is cooking, helps prevent scum from forming. Many thanks for these suggestions. Here's another I'd like to add: A long-handled wooden spoon is ideal for stirring preserves. The wood stays cool so it's easy to use. It won't scratch the surface of your kettle and the jam won't stick to it. Leaving a wooden spoon in the batch while it's simmering prevents boil-overs too. Here's a tip you'll appreciate when it is time to open those jars of jam you're putting down now. Before pouring the sealing coat of paraffin, lay a small length of string across the preserves, then pour the wax over it. When the time comes to use the jam all you do is lift the two ends of the string and the whole piece of wax is removed quickly and easily.

Speaker Survives Pair of Challenges

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker Marcel Lambert Wednesday survived two opposition challenges to his ruling that members must ask only urgent questions, without expressing opinions, in the daily question period in the Commons.

The two votes on appeals from his rulings, which were upheld 147 to 85 and 130 to 103, highlighted a period of crossfire and parliamentary mix-ups so protracted that the Commons never did get time to deal with government business.

The storm centred on the return to Ottawa of Eldon Wooliams (PC-Bow River), one of three Alberta Conservatives reported to have sought the removal of J. R. B. Coleman as director of the national parks branch of the resources department.

Paul Martin (L-Exeter East) asked Resources Minister Dingle whether, "in accordance with well established tradition," the minister would "speak up in defense of a distinguished civil servant under his charge."

Mr. Martin appealed. On the vote upholding the Speaker's decision, Mr. Lambert had support of all parties but the Liberals.

Brazil has agreed to establishment of a settlement for Chinese refugees in the state of Paraná.

Jobless Total Drops

OTTAWA (CP) — A further drop in Canadian unemployment, down 20,000 from mid-August to 260,000 at mid-September, was reported today in a joint statement by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the labor department.

The decline in jobless numbers, due largely to the back-to-school movement of students leaving the labor market, put the September unemployment figure 48,000 below the level of a year earlier.

September unemployment represented 3.9 per cent of the labor force, the lowest since September, 1959.

Hospitals Could Save $3,500,000

PENICTON (CP) — A reduction of one day in the average period patients spend in B.C. hospitals would reduce costs by $3,500,000, George Masters, administrator of Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital, said Wednesday.

And every new department means an added daily cost of $1 a patient, he told the 45th annual conference of the B.C. Hospitals' Association.

He said the one-day reduction would reduce the number of patient days in B.C. — 2,650,000 this year — by 200,000. But it's up to the doctors, he said, to decide how long a patient stays.

Don Andrews, chairman of the board of Royal Inland Hospital at Kamloops, said many of the pressures toward increased costs come from doctors seeking new or replacement equipment, new facilities and more services.

"There seems to be a never-ending pressure from doctors in my (area) for such things as automatic equipment which are not as necessary as doctors would lead us to believe."

Dr. W. R. Brewster, chief of staff of New Westminster's Hoyal Columbian Hospital said the association looked for a resumption of their battle over B.C. hospital financing.

Mr. Martin charging some hospital boards seem to regard finances as unimportant, while a few are even "deliberately pursuing a policy detrimental to the hospital and the community."

He blamed the situation partly on a large turnover of hospital boards, leaving trustees without needed knowledge.

Association president Harry Slade of Powell River replied the government is as much to blame as anybody, since it refuses to allow hospitals the right to other sources of revenue.

The funds B.C. allows do not even meet basic hospital needs, he said, and costs are rising continually.

Blood Factor

Ingredient Fights Cancer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — A young research doctor Wednesday described an ingredient of the blood which he said apparently keeps most people from getting cancer.

Dr. Edward D. McLaughlin told the American College of Surgeons that he found people without cancer have 10 times more of the substance in their blood than persons with cancer.

Although admitting his research had just begun, he said relatively low amounts of the ingredient appeared to be a "defect" which "may be inherent in the patient" and not caused by the presence of cancer.

McLaughlin said that he got evidence for his theory from people as well as mice and rats.

Cruising Heel Puts Real Spring in Step

Aussie's Invention

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Pedestrians should find the going easier with an invention that puts spring into every stride.

It is a shoe or boot heel that looks like a normal leather heel but really is of rubber with steel springs built into it.

The effect is a heel that offers more resistance than rubber alone, absorbs the first impact of the thump of a man's shoe on the sidewalk surface and triggers off a "kick" to the next step.

OF GREAT VALUE

As soon as the device, invented by Grant McDonagh, of Sydney's harbor-side sporting suburb of Manly, became known to medical and surgical circles of Sydney Hospital, all appeared agreed that the "springlift" heel could be of great value to sufferers from foot injuries or ailments and possibly to arthritic patients.

Several dozen pairs of heels were given to an organization specializing in help for amputees and otherwise crippled people. Days after the first parcel had been put into commission a request came for a repeat supply.

SERVE AS WELL

McDonagh says he can see that with design and spring tension modifications the heel can serve the needs of the ailing as readily as those of the well and fit.

He hopes, however, that he'll be able to market the heel for general use. Greatest benefit from the heel is expected to be derived by men who must walk in their work—postmen, collectors, meter readers, canvassers, salesmen and the like.

McDonagh says he has covered 30 miles in a day with little effort with the heel.

KEEP IT GOING

He added breezily: "You can idle along at three miles an hour; cruise in comfort at four to five miles an hour; accelerate to six miles an hour and, if you're really in a hurry, reach a top speed of more than eight miles an hour—and keep it going."

A pair of heels costs $2.50. Weight is about two-thirds that of normal heels.

Army veterans who served in wars where footslogging was a feature of infantry training and service say the spring heel may be all right for civilians but could hardly be expected to win popularity among men in uniform who wanted to walk fewer miles in a day, not more.

Pro-Market Speakers Win Varsity Debate

Resolution that Great Britain should join the European Common market was given in favor of the affirmative at a debate held Monday night at Victoria University.

Decision was reached by a panel of three adjudicators, represented by Education Minister Peterson, after a half-hour address by each of the four speakers.

BRITISH STUDENTS

Providing much of the action throughout the debate were two visiting British students, Alan R. Andrews, a graduate of Leeds University, and David Erroll Prior-Palmer from Oxford University. They were sponsored by the English-Speaking Union.

Supporting them, on the affirmative and negative sides respectively, were Victoria University students Michel Horn, a fourth-year student just returned from a year's study in Germany, and Walter Bell, president of the University Debating Union.

MORAL OBLIGATION

While the negative asserted Britain should consider her moral obligation to the Commonwealth and the possible political and economic effects before joining the common market, the affirmative maintained Britain's link with the Commonwealth will do nothing for her if Britain remains on the outside.

ONCE POWERFUL

Because Britain was once a powerful nation does not mean she will always be one and "unfortunately we cannot depend on nostalgic historical memories," said Mr. Palmer, for the affirmative. "Britain cannot operate outside Europe. If she wishes to maintain her political and economic influence she must join the European economic communities and form one of the three major world powers."

Rape Case Goes To Jury Today

Assize court trial of a city man charged with the rape of an expectant mother will go to the jury today.

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton indicated yesterday afternoon that his charge to the 12-man jury hearing the trial of Stephen Cassidy would last up to an hour and a half.

FOUR-HOUR ARGUMENT
Earlier, the jury heard a four-hour argument by defence counsel David Hummel, who said there was a "number of inconsistencies" in the testimony of both the complainant and another Crown witness, a woman tenant of the house where the alleged offence occurred.

He said the character of the witnesses cast serious doubt as to their credibility.

"You must not feel that by acquitting the accused you are condemning the complainant as a liar... such a feeling would be monstrous... and a complete dereliction of your duty," he told the jury.

"REEKS OF SPITE"
"I would suggest that this whole matter has its roots in spite."

Cassidy stands accused of entering the rooming house operated by the complainant, dragging her from bed and criminally assaulting her in the kitchen of the home.

Mr. Hummel apologized to the jury for what he termed an apparent effort by the defence to "besmirch the characters of three of the ladies in this case."

But, he added, "the whole house (where the offence was alleged to have occurred) reeks of immorality."

MORAL CODE CONTRAVENED

"Everyone associated with this house has contravened the moral code of society," he said.

Evidence by the complainant that she screamed throughout the attack was not borne out by the failure to find anyone who heard her, Mr. Hummel contended.

"PURE POPPYCOCK"
He termed her version of the attack "pure poppycock."

The lawyer suggested the jury could find the accused guilty of a lesser charge of common assault. If they accepted the complainant's identification of the accused as her attacker.

EVIDENCE INCONCLUSIVE
Evidence linking this man with the attack was "inconclusive," he added, but he suggested Cassidy could have called at the house to "have it out" with the complainant over her interference between him and his girl friend, a former tenant.

"Whenever these three people got together, there were explosions, and not of sexual passion," said the lawyer.

ILL-FEELING

Ill-feeling had existed between the complainant and Cassidy since the beginning, he added, and Cassidy could have called at the house to argue with the woman.

A scuffle developed and, said the lawyer, Cassidy could have struck her.

Storm Victim Quits Hospital

A man who was injured when his car struck a fallen tree on Cordova Bay Road at the height of Friday's storm was released from Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday.

Ronald Wallbank, 392 Half-burton Road, was taken part way to hospital in a private car then transferred over another down tree on Blenkinsop Road and taken the rest of the way by Saanich fire department ambulance.

Rare Bird Sighted

OTTAWA (CP)—A good possibility exists that the Eskimo curlew, a buff-colored wading bird, has not followed the passenger pigeon into extinction, Canadian wildlife officials said Tuesday.

This long-legged bird with a long slender curved bill inhabited the Canadian Arctic in vast numbers before the turn of the century. It is believed to have been seen on Galveston Island in Texas.

Tories Seek Ideas

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—The Progressive Conservative party is looking for ideas which are both progressive and conservative.

A call has gone out from party headquarters here to 5,000 workers across the country for platform policy ideas and proposals to make the structure of the party more effective.

STUDY SUGGESTIONS

The suggestions, in the form of resolutions passed by local groups, will be studied by two committees scheduled to meet here Dec. 15 in preparation for the party's annual meeting Jan. 18-19.

Both the senior party organization, and groups in the women's, youth and university organizations, are being canvassed.

About 1,500 delegates and as many alternates, guests and observers are expected to be accredited for the annual meeting.

CHAIRMAN CALGARY MAN

Chairman of the important policy committee is mild-mannered Roy Deyell of Calgary.

Karn Talks Today

Owen Karn, president of the board of directors of the Silver Threads Service, will speak at a breakfast meeting of the men's club of Victoria, SS Beaver, in the Tally-Ho Hotel at 7:30 a.m. today.

succeeding Richard A. Bell of Ottawa, now minister of citizenship and immigration.

A new chairman of the constitution committee is to be elected. Mr. Deyell chaired the discussion of party constitution problems at the party's executive meeting here in August.

NEW PLANKS

At the executive meeting, which decided to call the annual rally next January, it was agreed that the party needed new ideas if it is to survive the next general election. The government's 208 members elected to the 365-seat House of Commons in 1958 were reduced in this year's general election to 116—lacking a majority but still the largest group in the House.

Coloring for Hair Clogs Up Nostrils

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—A Federal Food and Drug official said Wednesday his office was investigating a report that a 7-year-old boy was made seriously ill from breathing a powdery substance used to streak hair.

Doctors said the powder clogged the nostrils of Robert Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ross, Altadena, Calif., when he was watching a 12-year-old neighbor girl streak her hair. Taken to hospital Sunday, Robert underwent a tracheotomy—a throat incision to supply oxygen—and remained hospitalized.

Dr. Morris L. Grover, city health officer, said a container for the substance had the warning, "keep out of the reach of children," but in small print.

Cheap Roses Costly

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I guess I like a bargain as well as the next man, but there is one field in which I will not go bargain-hunting, and that's when I am shopping for rose bushes. There are lots of cheap bushes going—lots of them of the spring-planting season, with leftover stock selling for 50 cents each—but it always seems to me penny-wise and pound-foolish to buy anything less than the best in roses.

These are long-lasting plants, not annuals which will be pulled and discarded after a single season of growth, and a healthy and vigorous rose, planted in the right spot and given reasonably good care, could quite easily outlive the person who plants it.

nursery catalogues in the privacy of your home, you will find roses are grouped in classes, according to their habit of growth. A Rambler rose, for instance, is quite different from a hybrid tea rose, and I thought it might clear the air if we ran over briefly the differences in these classes.

HYBRID PERPETUAL: The first roses to be grown were, of course, all species or "wild" roses, but along about 1840 a race of hardy hybrid roses appeared in Europe and became tremendously popular with our great-grandparents. These were given the name "hybrid perpetual" or H.P. for short because these were the first roses to produce a second crop of bloom in the one season. Actually, the term perpetual is a misnomer, for the H.P. roses bloom only in the late spring and again in the fall, with nothing much in between.

We don't see many of the H.P. roses around these days, as the more modern types have pretty well taken over the spotlight, but the scentless white Frau Karl Druschki and the crimson George Dickson are still sold in good quantities every year. Captain Hayward, a very old light crimson H.P. rose, is about the hardest to survive a winter in Whitehorse without any protection at all.

HYBRID TEA: The first of the hybrid teas, a rose called La France, was produced by crossing an H.P. rose with one of the tea-scented roses from China. This gave us a race which, while not quite so hardy as the older H.P. kinds, would keep on blooming off and on all summer long and is actually more "perpetual" than the H.P. class.

When your sugarplum tries to make time with you by arriving with a dozen long-stemmed florist's roses tucked under his arm, these are hybrid teas. The bushes are small and neat as a rule and many varieties have bronze or purplish foliage. The flower buds are pointed or vase-shaped.

Usually, each shoot on an H.T. rose will bear three buds. The keen grower will nip out two of these, leaving just the one perfect rose on the end of a long stem. It has comparatively few thorns and these are very short, flat and blunt, quite unlike the whistkey bristles on the wild and species roses.

The hybrid teas require a bit more fussing to keep them happy and in good health, but they are well worth the trouble, for they are unsurpassed as cut flowers and the exquisite delicacy and haunting fragrance of a well-grown H.T. rose cannot be matched anywhere in the floral kingdom.

Unseen Candidate Loses Face and Vote

We were standing on Times Square, held up by the police, because President Kennedy and Robert Morgenthau, the Democratic candidate for the governor of New York, were going to pass by. President Kennedy had flown all the way up to New York to give Mr. Morgenthau a helping hand in his campaign to defeat Gov. Rockefeller.

As we stood there we wondered if anyone changed his vote when he saw the president of the United States drive by in a convertible with a candidate sitting next to him.

Then, as luck would have it, we started talking to the man next to us, and we asked him whom he was planning to vote for.

"Then you are impressed by something like this?" "Sure I am. What else is there to decide on?"

"Will the fact that the president is sitting in the car next to Mr. Morgenthau influence your thinking?" "I haven't seen the president since 1960 and I want to get a look at him again."

"Did you come out especially to see the candidate today?" "That's right. I saw Rockefeller some time ago. But I wanted to be fair to Morgenthau, so I came up here today. Frankly, I'd prefer a bigger parade. I'm just nuts about bands. Anybody who rides behind a good band can have my vote."

"That's certainly unusual," we had to admit. "Most people don't go into the issues as deeply as you have."

"If you're going to vote," he said, "you've got to have a certain responsibility." "Do you ever listen to campaign speeches of the candidates?"

"Heck, no," he replied. "That would just confuse me. I make up my mind based on the parade. If I like the show they put on, that's good enough for me."

"Have you ever voted for someone based on his looks and regretted it later?" "No, sir, I can't say that I have. Of course after a few years in office they don't look as good as when I voted for them, but that's their fault, not mine."

Just then the crowd started to cheer and the president and Mr. Morgenthau rode slowly by, waving. The president waved to us, but Mr. Morgenthau was waving to the crowd on the other side of 42nd Street.

"Well," we said to our friend as they disappeared, "what do you think?" "Morgenthau made a mistake waving to those people on the other side. I didn't get a good look at his face."

"But the president waved at you," we said.

"Okay, so I'll vote for him in 1964. But I'm not sure about Morgenthau. I never trust a man who refuses to look me straight in the eye."

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Elizabeth Taylor has by no means given up her lease on Richard Burton's affections. She is just looking the other way, pro tem, and not insisting on divorces—not until after the movie Cleopatra is launched.

I introduced Hugh O'Brian to Mrs. Susan Wilding in London, and lo and behold, he rented one of her houses for six weeks. The ubiquitous Mr. O'Brian, incidentally, has been flying weekends from London to Lebanon to see a girl called Cassie who dances with Charlie's Ballet, whoever and whatever that is.

New York maidens have a treat in store next week when Terence Stamp jets over from England to appear with his Billy Budd movie. He looks like an angel with yellow hair in the title role. Terence had his locks blonded for the Peter Ustinov picture.

Doris Day has her lips buttoned re rumors of trouble in her marriage with Marty Melcher.

Marge Champion had her two children baptized, then drove husband Gower to the airport to catch his plane to Manhattan where Richard Rodgers caught up with him. Director-dancer Gower is in charge of the new Rodgers-Lerner musical.

Oscar-winner George Chakiras and his tennis-playing partner, Nan Morris—is this a love match?—have returned from Japan where George co-starred with Yul Brynner and Richard Widmark in Flight from Ashiya.

A movie producer was complaining to his press agent: "How come we had so much publicity, then all of a sudden, everything stopped." "You showed the picture," replied the agent.

Dino De Laurentiis told me happily that his Barabba movie is a smash in Europe and is breaking all records in Japan, where they must have strong stomachs. He has made no castings yet for his Bible film project. I'm sure that Barabba will be a success—this sort of thing always seems to be.

Marty is really a count! Ernie Borgnine, who played a butcher and won an Oscar for the portrayal is the son of Countess Anna Roselli Borgnine and his Italian lineage goes back to the early 1700s.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

There's a charming new book about New York City, The City Dwellers by William K. Zinsner (Harper). It's something of the order of those other famous books about New York by E. B. White and Meyer Berger, and I predict it will join them as a little classic.

Zinsner has a nice way with the little foibles and customs of New Yorkers—things such as the business lunch, how to act in the subway during the rush hour, how to court a girl who lives with two roommates, and the great game of parking a car overnight on a New York street.

Here he is on the "unsung sport" of jaywalking:

Beauty Unrivaled

"Nothing can rival the beauty of a good jaywalker as he bobs and pirouettes between the cars coming from one direction until, halfway across, he turns to meet those coming from the other direction, which he has had no chance to observe until that very moment. This is jaywalking's moment of truth. It calls for cold courage and instant reactions, and the sportsman who conquers the moment can hold his head high—unless, of course, it has been pinked by a tail fin."

"Some" cities have taken steps lately to control the jaywalker. New York, for instance, has not only installed the WALK and DON'T WALK signs that have long been prevalent elsewhere; its policemen also give tickets to people who disobey the signs. These "two elements have added infinite zest to the sport."

Inner Compulsion

"For the proud jaywalker the sign DON'T WALK means only one thing: WALK. The jaywalker is one of America's last individuals. He will not be told when to cross or not to cross a street, and when the blinking red lights say DON'T WALK, some inner compulsion propels him forward. His senses are now more alert than ever, attuned not merely to the surging cars but to the potential cop on the opposite corner."

"Seeing a cop, the jaywalker must reverse his field and flee back to safety, secure in the faith that the patrolmen will not be bold enough to follow. This reverse is the trickiest manoeuvre in the jaywalker's arsenal. It defeats car and cop alike, and for pure sport who could ask for anything more?"

Pilot's Stormy Flight Never Got Off Ground

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—A pilot told Wednesday of how he piloted a plane for nearly three hours Friday, but never took it off the landing strip.

Charlie Holcomb of Eugene landed at Eugene's municipal airport when the wind was blowing at 85 miles an hour.

Holcomb headed the plane into the wind and kept his engines revving since it was impossible to cut the engines and tie the plane down.

"I kept the nose gear touching the runway all right," Holcomb said, "but most of the time the other two wheels were up in the air."

The wind let up after two hours and 45 minutes. Holcomb said he taxied the $130,000 twin engine plane into a hangar and shut off the engines.

Matter of Policy

Bonner Mum on Sect Plan

Attorney General Robert Bonner last night offered a firm "no comment" on a statement made by a Sons of Freedom Doukhobor spokesman that the 1,000 Freedomites camped in Hope may come to Victoria to see him.

The statement was made by Mrs. Fanny Storoff Tuesday. She said she felt like marching to Victoria "if he (Bonner) does not solve our problem."

Mr. Bonner said he was not commenting on the Doukhobor movements "as a matter of policy."

Asked whether the Freedomites would be allowed to camp on the legislative buildings lawns if they visited Victoria, Mr. Bonner replied: "No speculation, please."

City Lawyer Chosen

Victoria lawyer Lloyd McKenzie has taken over defence of the provincial government's action in the takeover of the B.C. Electric.

The step became necessary when Charles W. Brazier, senior counsel for the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, suffered a heart attack last weekend. He was reported in fair condition in Vancouver.

The hearing entered its 83rd day yesterday.

Egypt Frowns on ECM

A veteran diplomat said yesterday that his government was opposed in principle to the European Common Market and all such blocs, whether economic or military.

Abdul Hamid Seoud, ambassador to Canada for the United Arab Republic here to speak at Victoria University today, said such power blocs could "gang up" to set prices to be paid for raw materials from non-industrial countries.

"There is nothing we export that you can't buy ... and by the same token, there is nothing you export that we don't need," said Mr. Seoud. He refused comment on his country's view of the possibility of Canada acquiring nuclear arms and leaving the "non-nuclear" club composed of smaller countries.

Mr. Seoud said Egypt's main fear was against future expansion by Israel.

OTTAWA (UPI) — Health Minister J. Walter Monteleith said Wednesday that the content of radioactive fallout in Canada's milk supply showed a general increase in September.

U.S. Copters Join Drive

SAIGON (UPI) — American-trained hunter dogs and heavily-armed U.S. helicopters joined the South Vietnamese government's massive "Morning Star" operation against Communist guerrillas on a broad arc around Saigon Wednesday.

There were few reports of enemy casualties and military observers said the elusive Viet Cong guerrillas were hiding out by day and moving only at night to evade 6,000 government troops.

Since the huge anti-Communist operation began last Thursday only 37 Communist guerrillas have been killed and 19 captured. The government has reported 13 of its soldiers wounded. There was no word on how many Viet Cong were killed by fire from the American helicopters.

The air strikes have taken several American lives. The latest came when a U.S. Air Force observation plane was shot down Tuesday with the loss of three lives. A fighter-bomber flying cover over the charred wreckage also was shot down but the pilot escaped with injuries.

The three fatalities brought to 45 the number of deaths of American servicemen in South Viet Nam this month.

No Need to Fret Pope Tells Crowd

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII Wednesday told an audience of more than 10,000 in St. Peter's Basilica that the Ecumenical Council is moving along and that the first day stumblings may be a good sign.

"Don't worry if things are going slowly," the white-robed pontiff said cheerfully. "Who goes slowly goes safely and goes far."

Slow Talks Good Sign

It was an apparent reference to the delays caused by differences over voting procedures for the members of 10 vital commissions which will play an important role in the decisions of the council.

The Pope spoke in Italian to the general audience, which included U.S. Navy men from the 6th fleet. His remarks were translated into German, English, French, Spanish, Dutch and Portuguese by Vatican assistants standing by the papal throne.

Liberals Return Gorst

For the third consecutive year, James Gorst, 325 Duval, was elected president of the Saanich Liberal Association, at the annual meeting Tuesday at Liberal headquarters, 1322A Government Street.

Completing the slate of officers elected were Miss Cecelia Bowen, 1213 North Park, secretary - treasurer; Joseph Saville, 1895 John, Sidney; Arthur Coates, 3733 Casey Drive; Ronald Medler, 1135 Bute; R. E. Henley, 1114 Marchants, Brentwood; all vice-presidents.

Guest speaker at the meeting was William Gilmour, Vancouver, president of the B.C. Liberal Association.

The council—the first by the Roman Catholic Church since 1870—opened last Thursday. Elections for the members of the commission were scheduled for Saturday but were postponed until Tuesday because of the disagreement.

The council presidency of 10 cardinals, including Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, worked out a compromise and the more than 2,500 council "fathers" cast their ballots for the 160 commission members. Results are not expected to be known until Saturday.

Each commission will be made up of 24 members: 16 elected by the "fathers" and eight appointed by the pontiff. The Basilica, with a 2,500-seat assembly chamber erected in its midst, was opened yesterday for a general audience of the Pope and more than 10,000 persons massed inside. It was one of the few days that the great bronze doors of the ancient church have been opened for the public since the recent unexplained bombing attempts.

Many of those present were tourists. The pontiff, sitting on the throne, threw open his arms in a gesture of welcome to the audience.

Trustees Sparked Into Action Group

A 34-year-old Haney lawyer has done most to spark the changing role of B.C. School Trustees Association in the field of education in the province.

R. E. Lester shattered all precedents when the association at its 38th convention which ended here yesterday re-elected him to a second term in the office of president.

MORE CHANGES

In an interview he traced the development of the association's role over the past few years from what was "largely a convention association" to a responsible action group.

Further changes are in the offing, he said.

By its makeup the trustees group is the most representative and therefore the most valuable voice of the public in education in B.C.

"As a responsible action group in this vital field of education we must reach the legislators, both provincial and federal," said Mr. Lester.

There are channels of communication to be opened and kept open to both governments in order to put across the "responsible and carefully considered viewpoint" of the layman, he said.

"Loud voices are not enough," said Mr. Lester. "We must not simply go to the governments with tales of woe or purely sectional viewpoints."

'POLITICAL ARM'

Earlier in his convention address Mr. Lester said trustees should not be afraid of lobbying to improve educational standards. He said yesterday

Policy Set

B.C. School Trustees Association yesterday adopted a policy stating school boards should be responsible for the development and operation of community colleges. Delegates held it was their duty to meet community needs beyond Grade 12 in both academic and vocational fields.

the extension of the "political arm" of the association had been a pet project for the past two years or more.

He also raised many eyebrows when he criticized the "negative attitude" of some school boards in thinking that the principal reason for their existence was to keep rein on salaries.

MUST KNOW

"Trustees can reach their optimum usefulness when they know what is being taught and how it is being taught," Mr. Lester said yesterday.

He said the convention showed a shift in emphasis towards the importance of studying more closely matters of curriculum and content.

In regard to teacher salaries, the president said, if the convention resolution calling for establishment of a province-wide scale comes into effect, "there will still be plenty of room for every school board to have its say in salary matters."

Death Tide Put To Halt

Says John D:

Economic Progress At Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday night Canada now is enjoying one of the greatest periods of economic progress in its peacetime history. He appealed to Canadians to develop a new sense of national destiny.

BEYOND ESTIMATE
Speaking on the CBC's national TV network program The Nation's Business, Mr. Diefenbaker said that during the last two months the expansion of economy has "exceeded the estimates I made during the campaign."

RENEWED DENIAL
The prime minister gave a review of the foreign exchange crisis and repeated denials that he had concealed the crisis until after the June 18 general election.

Transfusion

Island Baby Saved

A new-born baby was in satisfactory condition after a blood transfusion replacement in St. Joseph's Hospital last night.

"Baby" Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Orr of Port Alberni was rushed to hospital from Port Alberni and given a police escort through the city yesterday morning.

RH FACTOR
The infant was born with an Rh blood factor which made an immediate blood transfusion necessary.

Supplies of blood were not available at St. Joseph's Hospital so a supply was sent from Vancouver but had to be shipped by B.C. government ferry as the mainland airport was fogged in.

CALL QUICKER
A hospital official said last night it was often quicker to ask Vancouver for blood when a supply was not readily available in Victoria as calling in a donor and the exchange operation took "almost as much time."

Hospital officials last night were dismayed at the amount of publicity given the infant's trip from Port Alberni.

'NOTHING UNUSUAL'

"There is absolutely nothing unusual about a blood transfusion replacement," an official said, "we do them all the time, I don't understand what all the fuss is about."

AGILI, Iran — An exhausted runner stumbled into the main village of Agili, and blurted out dreadful news.

His whole whole village was sick... a horrible plague... hundreds dying... come quickly.

With allowances for the Persians' love of exaggeration, Gloria Pierce Bakhtiar, a University of Toronto-trained doctor, got ready to travel.

Drugs in a fishing tackle box, instruments in a black bag, she set off across the western Persian dustbowl.

Nine Already Dead

Hours later she arrived at a mud-walled village in the foothills.

The village was in the grip of measles. Already nine people were dead, and others on the verge of death.

So weak and malnourished were the 500 villagers that all were of other diseases were hitting them — dysentery, pneumonia and ear ailments.

She gave everyone penicillin shots and sulfa pills. All got a bar of soap. She worked through the night.

The village recovered with no more deaths.

This is a typical story of Dr. Gloria.

Called 'Mister'

Though traditionally a woman's lot is not a happy one in this country, Gloria is respected and regarded as something divine.

The men call her "mister" — a great compliment. The women call her "Bibi Khan Gloria" — Great Lady Gloria.

No doctor had lived in Agili before. Allah, amulets, medicine men and superstitions substituted for medications.

Centuries Ahead

But curiously, Gloria found when smallpox epidemics hit villagers used pus from an afflicted person and vaccinated one another's wrists — centuries ahead of the civilized world in developing immunization.

With her meagre resources of drugs and samples brought from America last year, Dr. Gloria has become a miracle worker.

But her path to acceptance was not easy.

Only Leftovers

"People shopped around before coming to me," she said. "At first I got only cases that priests and charm-workers couldn't handle."

Before she arrived, uncleanness seemed next to godliness.

Sterilization is unknown (She uses a pressure cooker for needles and scalpels.)

Khrushchev 'Unlikely' To Spur Berlin Crisis

AP-Reuters

MOSCOW — Diplomatic sources here indicated Wednesday they see nothing in recent Soviet actions or statements suggesting Premier Khrushchev would precipitate a Berlin crisis immediately after the Nov. 6 congressional elections in the United States.

These reports circulated after a non-committal communique circulated Tuesday about the three-hour conversation between Khrushchev and the new U.S. ambassador, Foy D. Kohler. The communique said the

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A U.S. minuteman "instant ICBM" veered wildly off course and was blown up last night, raining heavy wreckage on Cape Canaveral in one of the most awesome rocket failures ever seen here.

Early reports indicated there were no injuries and that the flaming debris—including tons of volatile solid propellant—tumbled into a pre-arranged "safety area," keeping damage to a minimum.

The 54-foot minuteman blasted from the bottom of a concrete-lined launching "silo." But what was planned as a smooth 3,000-mile flight, was turned into one heart-stopping spectacular moment.

Boy Found Dead In Lovers' Lane

ISLAND PAIR SLAIN

By TERRY HAMMOND

NANAIMO — Discovery of the body of a 19-year-old practical nurse yesterday afternoon has turned what police first believed was murder and abduction into a double murder.

Found dead of two gunshot wounds in his car along a local lovers' lane shortly before 10 a.m. yesterday was 19-year-old garage mechanic Leslie Dixon of 722 Connaught Avenue.

Discovered seven miles away near an abandoned garbage dump later in the day was the body of his sweetheart, Diane Phipps, 630 Fifth Street, in residential Harewood.

She had scratches and contusions on her face and a bullet wound between the eyes. Dixon's body was discovered by two brothers who went looking for him when he failed to return home after going to meet Diane shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday.

BODY UNDER CAR

His girl friend's body was found by a scrap dealer under parts of a junked car about two miles from her home.

The murder victims were last seen alive at about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night in a downtown restaurant. The killings are thought to have taken place about midnight.

Diane Phipps, slim, blonde and attractive, was a graduate of the Nanaimo Vocational School and became a practical nurse at St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver only 12 days ago. She had come to Nanaimo on her day off.

Police, who were mounting a massive search for the missing girl, said it was a "chance in a million" that her body was discovered.

TRACES COVERED

It had apparently been dragged by the murderer from his car to a point about 10 feet off the side of Seventh Street in Harewood.

The killer had covered her with the fenders of a junked automobile.

Police said the passage of a grader along the dirt and gravel road between the time the murderer left and the time the girl's body was discovered obliterated any tell-tale tire tracks that might have been left at the scene.

NO MOTIVE KNOWN

RCMP Staff Sgt. Earl Sarlat, NCO in charge of the Nanaimo detachment, said late last night that investigators so far had not established a motive. He said sums of money found on Dixon's person, in the car, and in the girl's purse indicated robbery was not a factor.

Nor was there any immediate evidence of a sexual attack on the girl, he added.

TWO BULLETS

A post-mortem which was continuing late last night established that Dixon died as a result of two bullet wounds in the head. One entered at the nape of the neck and the other behind the left ear. The bullets were recovered from the victim's skull.

Phipps said two .22-calibre spent cartridges were found in the rear of Dixon's car.

GEORGETOWN, B.C. (UPI) — Rev. Lively Brown said last week the community's dry weather might be because "church members hadn't been 'paying the preacher' and urged them to drop more in the collection plate."

The next Tuesday it rained. It also rained Wednesday and Thursday.

On Friday lightning struck the church steeple.

Death in Family Not New to Her

By Colonist Staff Reporter

NANAIMO — A dry-eyed 62-year-old Nanaimo woman inured to family tragedy told the Colonist last night she had a premonition of her son's death.

Her son, Leslie Dixon, a 19-year-old service station employee, was slain on Nanaimo's lovers' lane Tuesday night.

Mrs. Helen Rosella Dixon said it was the second time in her life that she had such a premonition and that she was right the first time too.

She told newsmen her son's death was the seventh in her family in the past four years. During the four-year period prior to her son's death she had attended the funerals of her husband, three brothers-in-law, a sister-in-law and a cousin.

She said that for several

Burned Pair Stumbles To Safety

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN — Their hands burned so badly they couldn't start their car, a Victoria couple stumbled three miles along logging roads to find help yesterday after fire destroyed a hunting cabin eight miles west of Shawnigan Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Paton, 31, Windsor Motor Court, were discovered struggling painfully down a road into the path of an unidentified Langford hunter's car.

RCMP said the Patons, described as in their early 30s, were burned extensively, especially on the hands, when flames swept the cabin after one tried to light a gas lantern and it exploded.

The Patons were reported in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital here.

Police said the story was incomplete, since it had been passed on from the Patons to the hunter to two Cobble Hill residents.

THREW ROCKS

The hunter began to take them to Duncan but a truck passing the hunter's car on a logging road threw up rocks which fouled the car's fuel line.

The hunter stopped near the home of Orville Nikirk of Cobble Hill but he reportedly did not have a car.

TO NEIGHBOUR

He went to neighbor Ray Dougan, who took the Patons to hospital while the hunter resumed his interrupted journey.

Mr. Paton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paton, 380 Ker. Mrs. Paton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barr, 408 Lochside.

Sweep Winner Keeping Calm

By TED SHACKLEFORD

So broke Tuesday night that he had to raid a penny bank to buy gasoline, 23-year-old Larry Colwell woke up 12 hours later, yesterday, to find he had won $150,000 in the Irish Sweepstake.

Even after he learned of his first-prize win, Mr. Colwell raided the piggy bank so his sister, Dianne, could take a taxi to get to work on time.

At their home at 440 Montcalm yesterday morning, Larry and wife, Teresa, 20, were the calmest people present. But even so, they were fairly excited.

PHONE OFF HOOK

"It was hectic this morning — all our friends phoned and other people. We have had to take the phone off the hook. One real estate man has come here already," Larry said.

"If we are bothered too much we might take off for a while... get a loan from somewhere and go."

"I guess we have about $10 in pennies and nickels in the piggy bank right now."

TAKE PARENTS OUT

Their plans to celebrate the win? "I think we'll take both our parents out to supper. I guess we can go to the A & W drive-in or something."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Colwell took the day off when they heard of their win. Mrs. Colwell is a stenographer at Stewart and Hudson's. Mr. Colwell is a $288-a-month engine-room wiper on the B.C. government ferry, Kahlake.

Masquerade Hid War Crimes

COBLENZ, West Germany (UPI) — A former Nazi secret police officer accused of murdering 3,000 persons told a court yesterday he evaded justice for 14 years by masquerading as his dead brother and became a bigamist with two children living in the United States.

Arthur Wilke, 52, a school teacher in the town of Stederdorf, was the last of 12 former Gestapo and SS Elite Guard officers to undergo questioning in Germany's biggest post-Nuremberg war crimes trial.

He told the court sobbingly, "I recognize as my guilt that I believed my fatherland would never demand anything criminal of me."

Wilke said he studied philosophy, ancient languages and theology in school but left the church in 1935 and joined the Nazi secret police (SD) in 1938.

When Germany collapsed in 1945, Wilke said he identified himself to British troops as his dead brother, Walter, and began a 14-year masquerade.

The charges against Wilke and the others involve the extermination of 70,000 Jews, Gypsies and other enemies of Nazi Germany in the Minsk area.

New Drive for Blind High-Pressure?

NANAIMO—Citizens of this area have received a warning over a direct mail drive from Toronto by an organization called The Canadian Federation of the Blind.

"There is no evidence these people render any service at all to the blind in B.C.," said Hugh Heath, president of the Nanaimo branch of the Canadian National Institute of the Blind. "Their funds are raised by high-pressure methods and the payment of high commissions to salesmen."

NORTH COWICHAN—The traditional problem of which dignitary should cut the ribbon was solved easily at the opening of the North Cowichan firehall addition. Nobody did—a fire truck was driven through it instead.

Fire Chief Pat Clarkson greeted the 186 guests, including Duncan Chief George Sanderson and provincial deputy fire marshal H. H. Jens.

NANAIMO—Forty more canvassers are needed urgently for the United Appeal campaign, particularly in the areas from Pine Street to the waterfront and Comox Avenue to the Esplanade. Home canvassing only is involved and anyone willing to help should phone SK 3-4671. The drive has reached $10,000, the goal is $61,691.

TOFINO—The 40-foot seiner Josephine is feared a total loss after a fire yesterday. But local volunteer firemen prevented the flames from spreading to other boats tied up at Tofino Marina.

DUNCAN—Former Duncan piano tuner Peter Knauer, now of Kelowna, has a hit record on his hands. He sold his song Montreal to Columbia Records after three months of trying and the report from Los Angeles is more than 40,000 copies have been sold.

NANAIMO—The advisory planning commission for community planning area No. 6 has had its number of appointees increased from four to nine. Alex Virotko, E. Doug Webster, Alf Pritchard, Howard Shanks and A. J. Johnston join W. J. Low, S. S. Storey, J. H. Thorpe and Frank Whitehouse.

NORTH COWICHAN—September building permits of $148,940 showed a slight increase over September, 1961, when the total was $133,558, says the municipal office. Nine-month totals are $1,217,407 and $872,819 last year.

CAMPBELL RIVER—The fall blood donor clinic was a decided success, officials said yesterday, with 456 donors—more than double the total last year.

COURTENAY—Full support of city council is assured for Powell River's efforts to have a ferry run between that municipality and Comox.

Powell River has asked O. New of Coast Ferries what type and size ferry he plans to build, how it will be financed, if it will be run on a year-round basis and how many trips a day. When these questions are answered Powell River plans a meeting of Comox, Courtenay, Gibsons and Sechart municipalities and chambers of commerce with Highways Minister Gagliardi.

NANAIMO—Because this area escaped the full force of the recent storm, the local B.C. Hydro office has been able to contribute three trucks and 12 linemen to help hard-pressed Vancouver area crews. There were enough men to make repairs on hard-hit Galiano, Mayne, North and South Pender and Salt Spring Islands.

PORT ALBERNI—Jack Gilchrist was elected grand exalted ruler of the local Elks club at a recent meeting and was installed Oct. 27. Others elected are Percy Chisholm, leading knight; William Krawetz, loyal knight; Oliver Greenwood, lecturer knight; John L. McDonald, secretary; Jim Olsen, inner guard; Len Woolven, tyler; Donald Rowe, equirer; Dave Galliford, chaplain; Robert Price, historian; William Leopky, pianist; Hugh Reid, publicity director; and Tom McGarrigle, Clarke Tassie and William Bos, trustees.

DUNCAN—Except for the fun they had, 25 Duncan Rotarians were not too successful with their last fishing derby.

Only one fish was weighed in. Congratulated for his extraordinary luck, Jim Moore received a trophy for the 7.5 coho he caught at Cowichan Bay. Seven boats were provided for the participants by Walter Hudson, Jack Dobson, Bascombe Palmer, John Dunning, Jim Hirst and Jim Moore.

Rotary directors will consider a recommendation from club members to donate grants to local basketball and soccer organizations.

ALBERNI—Building permits during the nine-month period ending Sept. 30 represented $317,362 in building in Alberni, according to a report by building inspector Jack Freer, presented to council.

The figure is $31,878 higher

Gavel and Colors Make Legion Rite

PARKSVILLE—More than 300 Legion members and guests from Sayward to Nanaimo were welcomed by Mount Arrowsmith branch president George Dods at a travelling gavel ceremony in the community hall.

The Port Alberni and Alberni Somass branches chose the occasion to present the Queen's colors to the Cumberland branch to replace those lost in a fire.

For the first time at a Legion ceremony, the Queen's colors were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Port Alberni president W. J. J. T. Harrison.

Peace Parley Values Listed by Delegate

NANAIMO—The latest world peace conference in Moscow was of much greater value than previous meetings because the former majority of Communists was reduced considerably, says Mrs. Olive Johnson, B.C. president of the Canadian Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament.

She said all 2,200 delegates from 120 nations had a chance to speak, the speeches were not used for propaganda purposes and the Russians heard for the first time "independent views which condemned both Russian and American participation in the arms race."

Mrs. Johnson also stated a strong group of independently-minded peace groups, among them 50 Canadians led by Brock Chisholm, made their weight felt.

She said that, "if our governments act with wisdom, calmness and reason, there is every possibility reasonable reactions will be elicited from the Russians."

City Engineer, Audio Man Called by Nanaimo Arena

NANAIMO—The civic properties and recreation commission has decided to call in the city engineer as an adviser on replacing the civic arena's heating system and call tenders for whatever work he recommends. An audio consultant will be brought in to make recommendations on replacement of the public address system, which may cost $3,000.

The commission decided not to aid Lantzville-Nanaimo Teen Towners in their drive for $3,000 to build necessary buildings and facilities. Commissioner Mavor Levery and arena manager Harry Wipper felt the facilities already exist in the arena.

Post Fights For Bastion

NANAIMO—The local Post No. 3 of the Native Daughters of B.C. is taking its fight against a possible transfer of the Bastion to the organization's grand session in Vancouver this week.

The Native Son's unit here recently barred the Daughters from entering the Bastion. It's reported the Sons wish to turn the Bastion over to the B.C. government and the Daughters fear the Bastion would be obliterated by an apartment building.

Ald. George Dunbar said that the city's new dog control bylaw would go into force at the same time, and that plans are to complete a dwelling for the SPCA officer no later than May 31 of next year.

The bylaw will stipulate that dogs must be under control at all times. Licence fees for male and spayed female dogs will be increased from $2 to $3 per year, while the $5 fee for females will remain unchanged, it was announced.

PORT ALBERNI—A long-time resident of Port Alberni, Mrs. Ida Lucy Stone, died in West Coast General Hospital on Wednesday, aged 74 years.

Her husband Percy, who died 12 years ago, was a partner in the long-established Stone Bros. Marine Towing business here.

Mrs. Stone was for many years an active member in the local Masque Dramatic Society. Funeral rites were held Saturday in St. Alban's Anglican Church.

At Harmae

Fisheries, Clubs Oppose Mill Plan

NANAIMO—Objections are being raised to the proposed $10,000,000 expansion of the MacMillan, Blouet and Powell River pulp mill at Harmae, and the federal fisheries department has gone so far as to file an objection to the company's latest application for a water licence.

WATER ENDANGERED

Residents of North Cedar and members of fish and game clubs also are concerned over possible effects of the withdrawal of large additional quantities of water from the Nanaimo River watershed.

Discussions have taken place between company and fisheries department officials. The department's Pacific area director, W. R. Houston, says the company "is anxious to co-operate in finding methods of supplying sufficient water requirements," but in the meantime the objection has been filed.

INADEQUATE FLOW

The department considers inadequate the present minimum flow of 30 cubic feet per second, maintained by the manipulation of water release from the reservoir at Fourth Lake, which was built by the company in 1952.

The department feels the capacity of the system, as determined from the available storage in Fourth Lake, has been reached.

The North Cedar waterworks draws its supplies from the same source.

To Draw Tourists

Ads Push Island

NANAIMO—An advertising man yesterday outlined a $46,000 plan to advertise Vancouver Island elsewhere by magazines, newspapers and billboards.

Developed by the James Lovick advertising agency of Vancouver in conjunction with Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau Commissioner William Hawkins, the plan was presented at a meeting of the bureau's directors by David Brown of the agency.

FINANCIAL APPROVAL

It was tentatively approved after Mr. Brown pointed out that less than $30,000 of it is to be spent in the next few months and the rest can be curtailed if enough revenue is not forthcoming.

Features of the plan are a heavy reliance on advertising in Sunset Magazine which circulates in the Western U.S.—about $10,000 in a $16,000 magazine advertising budget—and "experimental" advertising costing about $1,000 in the New Yorker and $3,000 in Texas newspapers.

CAR MAGAZINES

About $5,000 is slated for auto club magazines advertising in California, Oregon, Washington, B.C., Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Newspaper advertising in the same six states and provinces accounts for $25,000 and billboard advertising in Edmonton and Calgary would cost about $2,000.

Advertising would be placed in Sunset to the exclusion of other magazines, Mr. Brown said.

Taxpayers Hit?

Victoria Holds Key To Publicity Costs

NANAIMO—Will Victoria's taxpayers contribute substantially more under a proposed scheme to make two bodies out of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau?

That, Victoria alderman and bureau president Austin Curtis said yesterday, is up to Victoria.

At a meeting of bureau directors Mayor R. B. Wilson of Victoria asked whether a $6,500 Victoria city grant to the proposed Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau would be in addition to or deducted from the city's present annual $50,000 grant to the Victoria and Island bureau.

City council will have to decide that, said Ald. Curtis.

A proposed budget for the Vancouver Island bureau for 1963 was tentatively approved by the directors yesterday with about $82,000 expenditures exceeding receipts by about $5,000.

The budget allowed for expenditures of $49,000 for advertising, $23,500 for pamphlets and other literature and $9,500 for administrative costs.

Receipts would include $31,500 from the B.C. government under the matching grants program, $38,500 from

Alberni Starts On Centenary

ALBERNI—A committee has been set up to promote and co-ordinate events of Alberni's golden anniversary year—1963. Representatives of several organizations met city council members Tuesday to discuss plans. The city was incorporated Jan. 1, 1913.

HEALTH BUILDING

Mayor Fred Bishop said suggestions at a preliminary meeting included a health unit building as a permanent project participation in existing public buildings and observances by schools and churches of the millennium.

Tentative plans were made to revive the July 1 sports day originated by pioneers of Alberni.

SUGGESTIONS ASKED

Mayor Bishop, chosen chairman of the committee, said council plans to observe Jan. 1 as the actual birthday of the city. He asked anyone with suggestions for projects or events to submit them for consideration.

Another meeting of the 50th anniversary committee is scheduled for 8 p.m., Oct. 20.

Few Projects Remain In North Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN—Acting Reeve Tony Staples told municipal council yesterday 90 per cent of the public works program in the municipality has been completed.

PRIVATE ROAD

Projects not yet completed include a stretch on Maple Bay Road at Tzouhalem Road where power and telephone poles have to be relocated, Mount Sicker, Cottonwood and Genoa Bay roads.

TRAFFIC REPORT

It was told a traffic counter registered 504 vehicles on Auchinachie Road in a week in July and 590 in a week in September. Maple Bay water district consumption in September was 991,300 gallons, or 293 gallons a day based on 125 users.

Smoke Inspection

Job Long Draw, Not Puff

The public demands action on the smoke nuisance and a part-time smoke inspector wasn't able to fill the bill, Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood said yesterday.

"There is no question that

Mr. Walker (outgoing part-time smoke inspector Thomas Walker) was able and willing," the alderman said.

"But he is 75 years old and held the job on a part-time basis. The public demanded more action than we were giving and therefore city council decided to hire a full-time inspector to do the job."

Ald. Edgewood was commenting on Mr. Walker's statement that he was losing his job because he couldn't get along with the chairman of the city's smoke advisory committee.

"Mr. Walker is quite correct when he said I wanted a yes-man," said Ald. Edgewood.

"I do. I want a man who'll say 'yes, I'll do the job that must be done.'"

Ald. Edgewood added: "Politics are very much a part of this smoke issue. The people have demanded that their elected representatives act now to eliminate the nuisance. All we as aldermen are seeking is a full-time city official to do the job."

The chairman also pointed out that salary for the new smoke inspector was fixed by city council, not by the smoke committee.

Earlier, Mayor R. B. Wilson flatly denied Mr. Walker's contention that he was eased out of his job for not being a "yes-man."

The mayor said: "The committee and council decided a full-time smoke inspector is needed and Mr. Walker is 75 years of age—well over retirement age for civil service—we cannot employ him on a full-time basis."

Mr. Walker made his attack in a speech to the Victoria branch of the Institute of Power Engineers—the men he had to regulate as smoke inspector.

Alberni Urged

Promote Beauty All Year

PORT ALBERNI—Local tourist promotion should be a year-round effort publicizing the natural beauties of the Alberni Valley rather than a summer concentration on sport fishing, tourist bureau attendant Mrs. Sue Frazer said in a recent letter to the Chamber of Commerce here.

She suggested co-operation with other island bureaus and said one or two girls familiar with upper-island areas should be on the Victoria bureau staff.

SO DIFFICULT

Mrs. Frazer mentioned many of this year's visitors had expressed interest in Della Falls and would have made the trip if it had not been so difficult to make arrangements.

It was announced Mrs. Edna Souther has been elected a director of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association.

Parksville Warring On Noise

PARKSVILLE—A fine not exceeding $100 or 30 days in jail is the penalty for infractions of a new ant-noise by-law which the village council has approved.

Individuals or organizations wishing to use loudspeakers to publicize some event must obtain written consent of the council.

Also given three readings was a civil defence bylaw which gives the council wide powers in organizing for any disaster. Plans are going ahead, pending final approval from the provincial government, for a vote Nov. 13 on a sewerage system for the village.

Ancient Silk, Modern Youth Linked in Chinese Pageant

FINE FIT: Helping organize The Golden Mountain Fantasy, the Chinese centennial pageant to be featured at the annual Lantern Festival which will be held in the Sirocco Oct. 21, Beale Tang has been collecting Chinese clothes and articles used in Victoria over the past 100 years. She donated the use of a richly simple gown worn by her mother, formerly a Miss Wong, some 70 years ago. Among the girls who will act in the pageant is May Wong—no relation—who will wear the gown and a pair of matching slippers.

CLEAN SWEEP: Yesterday's big winners in the Irish Sweepstakes—Larry and Teresa Colwell, 440 Montclair—have joined a select group of Greater Victoria residents who have won some $615,000 from the Irish over the past 10 years. Other winners included Wah Quon in 1953.

SMOKE SCREENS: The word we hear is that city smoke inspector Tom Walker is NOT being pushed out because Ald. Geoff Edgewood wants a "yes" man in the job. But some city aldermen in the past few months have been asking each other in surprised tones just whose side Mr.

Walker has been on over the smoke issue. Seems they feel he has been too easy on smoke-producing industries and has publicly supported operators. And as Tom is beyond retiring age he can't apply for the full-time job of smoke inspector.

POETIC LICENCE: Former Saanich councillor Bill Kersey sat down the other day to ponder the amalgamation problem and came up with the following:

A is for Amalgamation which is bound to take place.

M is for Merger in this inevitable embrace.

A is for Amenity to all share together.

Says John D:

Economic Progress At Peak

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday night Canada now is enjoying one of the greatest periods of economic progress in its peacetime history. He appealed to Canadians to develop a new sense of national destiny.

BEYOND ESTIMATE
Speaking on the CBC's national TV network program The Nation's Business, Mr. Diefenbaker said that during the last two months the expansion of economy has "exceeded the estimates I made during the campaign."

RENEWED DENIAL
The prime minister gave a review of the foreign exchange crisis and repeated denials that he had concealed the crisis until after the June 18 general election.

AGILI, Iran — An exhausted runner stumbled into the main village of Agili, and blurted out dreadful news.

His whole village was sick... a horrible plague... hundreds dying... come quickly.

With allowances for the Persians' love of exaggeration, Gloria Pierce Bakhtiar, a University of Toronto-trained doctor, got ready to travel.

Drugs in a fishing tackle box, instruments in a black bag, she set off across the western Persian dustbowl.

Nine Already Dead

Hours later, she arrived at a mud-walled village in the foothills.

The village was in the grip of measles. Already nine people were dead, and others on the verge of death.

So weak and malnourished were the 500 villagers that all sorts of other diseases were hitting them — dysentery, pneumonia and ear ailments.

She gave everyone penicillin shots and sulfa pills. All got a bar of soap. She worked through the night.

The village recovered with no more deaths.

This is a typical story of Dr. Gloria.

Called 'Mister'

Though traditionally a woman's lot is not a happy one in this country, Gloria is respected and regarded as something divine.

The men call her "mister" — a great compliment. The women call her "Bibi Khan Gloria" — Great Lady Gloria.

No doctor had lived in Agili before. Allah, amulets, medicine men and superstitions substituted for medications.

Centuries Ahead

But curiously, Gloria found when smallpox epidemics hit villagers used pus from an afflicted person and vaccinated one another's wrists, centuries ahead of the civilized world in developing immunization.

With her meagre resources of drugs and samples brought from America last year, Dr. Gloria has become a miracle worker.

But her path to acceptance was not easy.

Only Leftovers

"People shopped around before coming to me," she said. "At first I got only cases that priests and charm-workers couldn't handle."

Before she arrived, uncleanness seemed next to godliness.

Sterilization is unknown. (She uses a pressure cooker for needles and scalpels.) Among the diseases she

Khrushchev 'Unlikely' To Spur Berlin Crisis

AP-Reuters

MOSCOW — Diplomatic sources here indicated Wednesday they see nothing in recent Soviet actions or statements suggesting Premier Khrushchev would precipitate a Berlin crisis immediately after the Nov. 6 congressional elections in the United States.

These reports circulated after a non-committal communique circulated Tuesday about the three-hour conversation between Khrushchev and the new U.S. ambassador, Foy D. Kohler.

The communique said the

Minuteman Spatters Canaveral

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A U.S. minuteman "instant ICBM" veered wildly off course and was blown up last night, raining heavy wreckage on Cape Canaveral in one of the most awesome rocket failures ever seen here.

Early reports indicated there were no injuries and that the flaming debris—including tons of volatile solid propellant—tumbled into a pre-arranged "safety area," keeping damage to a minimum.

The 54-foot minuteman blasted from the bottom of a concrete-lined launching "silo." But what was planned as a smooth 3,000-mile flight, was turned into one heart-stopping spectacular moment.

NANAIMO — Discovery of the body of a 19-year-old practical nurse yesterday afternoon has turned what police first believed was murder and abduction into a double murder.

Found dead of two gunshot wounds in his car along a local lovers' lane shortly before 10 a.m. yesterday was 19-year-old garage mechanic Leslie Dixon of 722 Connaught Avenue.

Discovered seven miles away near an abandoned garbage dump later in the day was the body of his sweetheart, Diane Phipps, 630 Fifth Street, in residential Harewood.

She had scratches and contusions on her face and a bullet wound between the eyes. Dixon's body was discovered by two brothers who went looking for him when he failed to return home after going to meet Diane shortly after 9 p.m. Tuesday.

BODY UNDER CAR
His girl friend's body was found by a scrap dealer under parts of a junked car about two miles from her home.

The murder victims were last seen alive at about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday night in a downtown restaurant. The killings are thought to have taken place about midnight.

Diane Phipps, slim, blonde and attractive, was a graduate of the Nanaimo Vocational School and became a practical nurse at St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver only 12 days ago. She had come to Nanaimo on her day off.

Police, who were mounting a massive search for the missing girl, said it was a "chance in a million" that her body was discovered.

TRACES COVERED
It had apparently been dragged by the murderer from his car to a point about 10 feet off the side of Seventh Street in light underbrush. The killer had covered her with the fenders of a junked automobile.

Police said the passage of a grader along the dirt and gravel road between the time the murderer left and the time the girl's body was discovered obliterated any tell-tale tire tracks that might have been left at the scene.

NO MOTIVE KNOWN

RCMP Staff Sgt. Earl Sarlat, NCO in charge of the Nanaimo detachment, said late last night that investigators so far had not established a motive. He said sums of money found on Dixon's person, in the car, and in the girl's purse indicated robbery was not a factor.

Nor was there any immediate evidence of a sexual attack on the girl, he added.

TWO BULLETS

A post-mortem which was continuing, late last night established that Dixon died as a result of two bullet wounds in the head. One entered at the nape of the neck and the other behind the left ear. The bullets were recovered from the victim's skull.

Police said two .22-calibre spent cartridges were found in the rear of Dixon's car.

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (UPI) — Rev. Lively Brown said last week the community's dry weather might be because church members hadn't been "paying the tithes" and urged them to drop more in the collection plate.

The next Tuesday it rained. It also rained Wednesday and Thursday.

On Friday lightning struck the church steeple.

Death in Family Not New to Her

By Colonist Staff Reporter

NANAIMO — A dry-eyed 62-year-old Nanaimo woman inured to family tragedy told the Colonist last night she had a premonition of her son's death.

Her son, Leslie Dixon, a 19-year-old service station employee, was slain on Nanaimo's lovers' lane Tuesday night.

SEVENTH DEATH
Mrs. Helen Rosella Dixon said it was the second time in her life that she had such a premonition and that she was right the first time too.

She told newsmen her son's death was the seventh in her family in the past four years.

During the four-year period prior to her son's death she had attended the funerals of her husband, three brothers-in-law, a sister-in-law and a cousin.

She said that for several days prior to the murder she had a premonition of disaster.

"I said to Ronnie (a 22-year-old brother of the murder victim) 'something tells me that something is going to happen.'"

She said that prior to her husband's death four years ago she had a similar premonition as he left for work one day.

When her husband failed to return home she knew her premonition had been correct. Her husband had been involved in an automobile accident as he drove home from his job and suffered minor injuries. He died later of a heart attack.

PHONE OFF HOOK

"It was hectic this morning—all our friends phoned and other people. We have had to take the phone off the hook. One real estate man has come here already," Larry said.

"If we are bothered too much we might take off for a while... get a loan from somewhere and go."

"I guess we have about $10 in pennies and nickels in the piggy bank right now."

TAKE PARENTS OUT

Their plans to celebrate the win? "I think we'll take both our parents out to supper. I guess we can go to the A & W drive-in or something."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Colwell took the day off when they heard of their win. Mrs. Colwell is a stenographer at Stewart and Hudson's. Mr. Colwell is a $288-a-month engineer on wiper on the B.C. government ferry, Kahlke.

Masquerade Hid War Crimes

COBLENZ, West Germany (UPI)—A former Nazi secret police officer accused of murdering 3,000 persons told a court yesterday he evaded justice for 14 years by masquerading as his dead brother and became a bigamist with two children living in the United States.

Arthur Wilke, 52, a school teacher in the town of Stederdorf, was the last of 12 former Gestapo and SS Elite Guard officers to undergo questioning in Germany's biggest post-Nuremberg war crimes trial.

He told the court sobbingly, "I recognize as my guilt that I believed my fatherland would never demand anything criminal of me."

Wilke said he studied philosophy, ancient languages and theology in school but left the church in 1935 and joined the Nazi secret police (SD) in 1938.

Wilke said he tried desperately to get a combat assignment but was refused. In 1942, he was ordered to Minsk in Nazi-occupied Russia.

The charges against Wilke and the others involve the extermination of 70,000 Jews, Gypsies and other enemies of Nazi Germany in the Minsk area.

When Germany collapsed in 1945, Wilke said he identified himself to British troops as his dead brother, Walter, and began a 14-year masquerade.

Couldn't Start Car

Burned Pair Stumbles To Safety

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Their hands burned so badly they couldn't start their car, a Victoria couple stumbled three miles along logging roads to find help yesterday after fire destroyed a hunting cabin eight miles west of Shawnigan Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Paton, 51 Windsor Motor Court, were discovered struggling painfully down a road into the path of an unidentified Langford hunter's car.

RCMP said the Patons, described as in their early 30s, were burned extensively, especially on the hands, when flames swept the cabin after one tried to light a gas lantern and it exploded.

The Patons were reported in satisfactory condition in King's Daughters' Hospital here.

Police said the story was incomplete, since it had been passed on from the Patons to the hunter to two Cobble Hill residents.

It appeared the Patons could not start their car after the 6:30 a.m. fire. They started for Shawnigan Lake and were found three miles away two hours later.

THREW ROCKS
The hunter began to take them to Duncan but a truck passing the hunter's car on a logging road threw up rocks which fouled the car's fuel line.

The hunter stopped near the home of Orville Nikirk of Cobble Hill but he reportedly did not have a car.

TO NEIGHBOUR

He went to neighbor Ray Dougan, who took the Patons to hospital while the hunter resumed his interrupted journey.

Mr. Paton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paton, 560 Ker. Mrs. Paton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Barr, 4088 Lochside.
